

Gun control law set for August vote

The voters of the City of Romulus will now have an opportunity to retain or reject the city's recently adopted Firearms Ordinance.

The city council at its April 4 council session approved the acceptance of petitions calling for a referendum vote on the new ordinance and ordered the referendum question be placed on the ballot for the Aug. 8 primary election.

The ordinance has been the subject of both citizen praise and protest for the last several months.

Thirty-six petitions containing the names of 581 persons were filed by Romulus Councilman James C. Stewart, arch opponent of the new gun control law.

At last week's council meeting, City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar reported that more than a sufficient number of signatures required to request a referendum election had been certified and approved.

Of the 581 signatures listed in the petitions, 487 were approved when checked with the city's voter registration lists. This is 30 more names than required, he reported.

The roll call vote of the city council on scheduling the referendum election was 6-1. Councilman Stewart, who fought for immediate repeal of the ordinance by the council, voted against the motion.

Councilman Ellis T. Pennington introduced the motion to accept the petitions for the referendum and place the ordinance question on the Aug. 8 ballot. He was supported by Councilman William M. Oakley.

Council President Jimmie Raspberry and Councilmen Brooker R. Edwards, Fred Junior Block and Edmund W. Bizek, along with Pennington and Oakley, voted in favor of the motion.

The council's action nullifies the new ordinance until the

Aug. 8 election, it was stated.

The new ordinance was adopted by the city council at a special meeting held on Jan. 27. Councilman Stewart at that time voted against the adoption of the new gun control law.

For Romulus schools

Tax collecting change okayed

The Romulus Board of Education approved a change in the collection of the 1972 school property tax at its Monday night meeting.

On the recommendation of School Supt. Robert L. McConeghy, the school board authorized the collection of 50 per cent of the school tax levy this summer and the remainder during December.

The Romulus City Council on Feb. 1 authorized the school district to collect a portion of its tax during the summer tax collection period. The city currently collects the city tax levy in the summer and the county and school taxes in December.

The request by the school district will assure it has operating monies at the start of the school year. In the past, operating revenues have been non-existent at this crucial period, necessitating huge borrowing of funds to meet payrolls.

"This action by the city, which collects our school taxes, will save the school district and the taxpayers of Romulus thousands of dollars in interest cost on monies borrowed," McConeghy said.

In approving the tax collection change, some members of the city council were concerned about informing the public of the new method of collecting school taxes and requested the school board to assume the responsibility of seeing that property owners are properly informed about collecting school taxes in the summer.

McConeghy reported to the council that the school board will advertise the change and will assume its fair share of additional collection costs to the city.

Based on the current tentative school tax levy for the 1972 school year, the summer tax collection would be 15.25 mills per $1,000 of assessed property valuation, state equalized, or half of the tentative school tax levy of 30.50 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation, state equalized.

Romulus group to compile data on city's history

Romulus history enthusiasts and pioneer families are invited to contribute to a history of Romulus that is being compiled by the Romulus Community Relations Commission.

According to Mrs. Sussanne Cooke, commission chairman, material is being gathered to compile a complete history of the area that will feature contributions by various racial and ethnic groups to the development of the community.

Recollections of early residents will be recorded on tapes and placed in the Romulus Library, along with the completed history. Other plans include a collection of artifacts for a future historical museum.

Those wishing to contribute to the historical collection are asked to contact the Rev. Alvin Burton at 941-1496, Mrs. Cooke at 941-2359 or Mrs. Donna Lee Zavitz at 728-6893.

The commission meets regularly at 7 p.m. on the fourth Monday of each month in the community room, located in the lower level of the City Hall complex.

Eighty inoculated in rubella clinic

Eighty children from Romulus, Belleville and Taylor were inoculated against rubella measles at the Rubella Clinic held at the Romulus Civic Center last Saturday under the sponsorship of the Romulus Jaycees, Gary Johnson, president of the Jaycees, announced Monday.

A staff of volunteer workers manned the clinic. Children were presented with phonograph records, compliments of Terry Woods of radio station WCHB in Romulus.

The Romulus Jaycees wish to thank Dr. Charles Truscon, Mrs. Doris Uddyback, Mrs. Jean Joley, Mrs. Sue Pratt, Mrs. Jean Savage, Mrs. Kay Ostrowski, Miss Debbie Gawne and Miss Jean Kassel for their time in this community service project.

The Jaycees also want to thank Kidwell Drugs in Romulus for its efforts in locating necessary medical supplies.

Demolition contract awarded in Romulus

A demolition contract covering about 32 structures in the City of Romulus has been awarded to the Stanson Wrecking Co. of Detroit and Belleville.

Stanson Wrecking was one of seven demolition contractors who submitted bids to the city for the contract. The bids ranged from approximately $13,000 to $25,000.

The council awarded the bid to the Stanson Wrecking Co. on the recommendation of Chief Building Inspector Clayton W. Meldrum. The firm's bid was $14,657, several hundred dollars above the low bid.

In a communication to the council, Meldrum cited the past performances of the Stanson Wrecking Co. in the city and in Wayne County. The firm, he reported, is registered, bonded and adequately equipped to handle the demolition project. Meldrum reported that all the information required in the specifications was not included in the bid proposal submitted by the lowest bidder.

The structures to be demolished have been termed by the city building department to be nuisances and hazards to the public welfare and safety. The buildings are located in various sections of the city. The owners of the properties will be assessed the demolition costs in conformity with the regulations of the city's demolition procedures.

Lodge sponsors student contest

Inkster's Golden Gate Elks Lodge and Temple is sponsoring an educational campaign to select students from area high schools to receive financial help in continuing their schooling.

The campaign is focusing on students from Robichaud, Inkster, Romulus, Taylor and Cherry Hill high schools.

The lodge is requesting that the schools select at least three students to compete in an oratorical contest. The three top finishers would receive financial awards to go toward their college education.

Romulus nixes public hearing

On request to rezone 35 acres for multiple dwellings

The Romulus City Council has refused to schedule a public hearing on a rezoning petition filed by the Glenn E. Wash Construction Inc., general contractors at 14541 Schaefer Rd., Detroit.

The firm filed a request to rezone a 35.1-acre parcel of land in the vicinity of Ecorse and Wayne roads from its present R-1A (single family) classification to RM (multiple dwelling).

Councilman Fred Junior Block made a motion that the council set a public hearing on the rezoning petition. He was supported by Councilman Brooker R. Edwards. The roll call vote of the city council on the motion was 4-3 against scheduling the public hearing.

Councilmen William M. Oakley, James C. Stewart, Edmund W. Bizek and Ellis T. Pennington opposed, while Councilmen Jimmie Raspberry, Block and Edwards were in favor of the hearing. Glenn E. Wash, firm president, made a personal presentation of the townhouse complex he has proposed for the location.

He stated that present plans called for the construction of 405 units with density lower than now provided for under present city regulations.

Forty-two per cent of the complex would be 169 one-bedroom units. The remainder would consist of 199 two-bedroom units and 37 three-bedroom units.

He reported the project cost would in the neighborhood of $8 million, of which $4 million will be taxes, with more than $150,000 in tax revenue for the school district. The total tax to the community per year would be $225,500.

The plans include the construction of a man-made lake, community building, swimming pool and a maintenance garage. Parking for the project would be on a 2-1 ratio, or two spaces for every unit. Proposed rentals would be $180 per month for the one-bedroom units.

Councilman Stewart objected to one entrance into the complex as reflected in the plans, Wash stated the firm would make the necessary correction.

The city's planning commission had approved the rezoning request.

Stewart commented that the planning commission should not have approved multiple zoning in a R-1A area. He claimed it amounted to "sport zoning."

Councilman Pennington opposed the rezoning, pointed out that the city has a limited amount of single family zoning area. Councilman Bizek stated he is opposed to more multiple dwelling at this time.

Council President Jimmie Raspberry commented he could not remember ever denying a public hearing on a rezoning request. He voted for holding the hearing and reserving his right of decision at that time.

He is Elmer A. Johnson, a founder and the first and only president, until this year, of the Romulus Progressive Club.

Johnson has been president of this non-profit organization for almost 40 years. He declined the nomination for the post this year, announcing it was time for someone else to take over the reins of the club.

Johnson, who will celebrate his 79th birthday on April 26, and his wife, Sally, reside at 37600 Tyler R., Romulus.

The testimonial dinner, sponsored by a group of Romulus citizens, will honor Johnson for his four decades of dedication to the Romulus community, where he has lived most of his life.

Johnson was born in Carleton, lived in Lincoln Park for a short time and then moved to Romulus.

The testimonial dinner will be held at 6 p.m. this Saturday in the Romulus Progressive Club Hall, 11580 Ozga Rd.

Roderick E. Smith, new president of the Romulus Progressive Club and former Romulus Township supervisor, will be toastmaster at the dinner and has reported sponsors expect 300 guests at the affair.

Members of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, city and school officials will be participating in the testimonial to Johnson. Several presentations to the dedicated Romulus citizen are planned.

WCGH is unique--facility has beds to spare

In an era when it may take weeks -- even months -- to get admitted to most hospitals, Wayne County General apparently is unique.

While there are waiting lines for beds in other institutions, WCGH has beds which lie empty.

A number of local doctors, refused admittance to practice at the institution, are attempting to break the hospital's closed system policy, which only allows certain approved doctors to practice at the county institution.

Their story isn't a pleasant one, particularly for those who must wait in lines for beds at other hospitals while beds are empty at WCGH and for the Wayne County taxpayers whose money goes toward supporting the facility.

In March, 1971, a report designed to explain WCGH's relevance, productivity and efficiency was completed. The results of the year-long investigation, which has not been widely publicized, are not favorable to the hospital.

Among the numerous charges coming out of the report, which was ordered by the Wayne County Planning Commission, was a claim that the hospital was under-utilized.

According to the report, the hospital "has not seen a real 80 per cent acute inpatient occupancy rate, calculated on the original 511 beds, since it was built in 1961-62."

The real occupancy rate, the report charged, was "more like 68 to 74 per cent. In 1969, 353 of the original (1959) 511 beds were used on an 'annual basis' for an occupancy rate of 68 per cent."

In a report entitled "Health Needs Study of Oakland County," done in June, 1971, Wayne County General was shown with a 68 per cent occupancy rate.

The closest any of the eight Oakland County hospitals reported on came to that figure was 85.1 per cent. The others had an average of more than 90 per cent occupancy rate.

According to Dr. M. Dean Razi, who signed the letter accompanying the petitions to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners a study done by Ernest and Ernest, which audits WCGH's books, showed that if the number of patients admitted to other hospitals is divided by the number of beds, each bed takes care of 40 to 45 patients a year.

Wayne County General, the report said, takes care of 24 patients per year per bed.

The situation has upset local doctors who are not allowed to practice at WCGH. They claim their ability to help their patients is being hindered and charge that, if the hospital was opened up to all doctors, not only would more patients be treated quicker than they would waiting in lines at other facilities, but the county's financial problems would be lessened considerably.

So, a group of 61 doctors from local communities have banded together to sign petitions requesting the county open up WCGH and drop its antiquated closed system policy.

Quite a few doctors are associated with Wayne's Annapolis Hospital, a Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) facility which they claim is overcrowded beyond belief. They further contend that all of the hospitals in the area -- except for WCGH -- are in similar situations.

The hospital's closed system policy not only hinders other doctors from practicing there, but it also means that, if an outside doctor's patient is admitted at WCGH, the doctor is not allowed to treat him.

One doctor, who wished to remain anonymous claims patients resent this since quite often a resident or intern studying at WCGH may be transferred to another hospital, meaning someone else will then be in charge of treating the patient.

This, he charges, inhibits the patient from establishing the kind of rapport with a doctor which often is found when he has been seeing one particular physician.

Dr. John Bihl of Livonia explains how many patients refuse to go to Wayne County General once they hear their own doctor will not be able to treat them. They would rather wait for an available bed at a crowded hospital than leave a doctor in whom they have entrusted their confidence.

"As long as a patient has the freedom of choice of physicians, he should have the freedom to be treated by them," Dr. Bihl contends.

One doctor claims it took him a month to get a patient diagnosed with cancer into WCGH, although there were empty beds. He claimed he knew of cases where seriously ill patients have been kept waiting for admittance, while their conditions deteriorated.

Dr. Bihl says, however, this has never been the case with him because if he can't get someone into WCGH right away, he goes elsewhere until he finds a bed.

All of the doctors questioned emphasized one point -- they are only interested in their patients' welfare, in getting them into a hospital when the need is present as soon as possible.

One local doctor tagged Wayne County General a "big waste of money, a big waste of personnel."

Although the physicians refuse to attack members of their own profession, they are quick to point out the inconsistencies in WCGH having a closed system, barring unapproved doctors from practicing there.

The doctors authorized to practice at WCGH are paid a straight annual salary based on a 40-hour work week, according to Dr. Herschel J. Wells, administrator. They, like other county employees, are allowed by the Civil Service Commission to do private work outside the hospital, and this, outside doctors charge, is the inconsistency.

While the doctors are paid a straight salary for the work they do at WCGH, they can admit outside patients to other hospitals. The doctors charge some WCGH doctors are doing this, thereby collecting fees for treating patients at other hospitals.

A number of doctors, an Annapolis Hospital physician charged, are doing this at Annapolis.

"It is more profitable to admit patients here," he claims.

Thus, he charges, other hospitals are overcrowded because Wayne County General physicians admit their outside patients to other facilities. If this is allowed, he asks, why can't outside physicians get their patients into WCGH and be allowed to treat them?

According to Dr. Wells, only about 25-30 of the 75 doctors at Wayne County General do any outside work, and some of it is in other areas such as Ann Arbor, where the doctors are on the faculty of the University of Michigan.

Several doctors feel one of the reasons they are not allowed to practice at the hospital is a claim from WCGH officials that outside doctors may "lower the standard" of the hospital, long known as a center for research and teaching and affiliated with the U-M medical school.

The doctors contend, however, that just the opposite could be true. According to one, the hospital and its doctors, residents and interns could only benefit from other specialists coming in.

Another claims it would create more competition and improve the situation at the "dying hospital." He claims that if they could take patients into WCGH and treat them, and if the inside doctors realized their qualifications, they might "feel insecure and try to compete," bringing more patients into the hospital.

Still another doctor says that if the hospital feels that strongly about its research and teaching program that it does not want to allow other doctors to interfere, the hospital could be divided into sections for "inside" and "outside" physicians.

Dr. Wells, however, feels that the doctors are oversimplifying the matter. He says there are many more things to be considered before the proposal could be implemented than just opening up the doors.

With more doctors, and subsequently more patients, Dr. Wells explains that more nurses will be needed along with more operating rooms. The hospital, he says, doesn't have a billing system at the present time geared to accommodating outside physicians.

Yet, these drawbacks do not mean the hospital is opposed to the proposal, Dr. Wells says. In fact, he claims, "If this is workable, we're dedicated to filling the beds."

Calling it an "approach which should be evaluated," Dr. Wells says it's a "complicated situation" and intends to participate in an ad hoc committee to study the doctors' petitions. "I'm certainly not opposed to the maximum utilization of beds," the hospital administrator said, "but if we had all the beds filled, we would be unbelievably understaffed."

"It's not something you can just jump off into -- you have to determine how much additional staff will be needed."

The feeling of the doctors is not that they want to keep WCGH doctors from practicing in other institutions, but that they want to be allowed to have the same benefits afforded doctors from Wayne County General.

One of their contentions is that the county's forced layoff of personnel at WCGH could be eliminated or lessened by opening the facility.

Two doctors said they definitely felt that personnel being laid off because of the psychiatric division closing down could be used elsewhere if outside doctors were allowed in. Their reasons are that, with more doctors practicing there, more patients would come in, generating more revenue which could be used to pay the personnel.

Dr. Razi was not impressed with the county board's reaction to the doctors' complaints.

According to him, the Health, Education and Welfare subcommittee of the board scheduled a meeting on March 13, one of the purposes of which was to discuss the letter from the doctors.

Dr. Razi went to Detroit in order to answer questions and give more information to the committee. But, although one committee member, Commissioner Charmie Currie (D-6th Dist.) wanted to hear from him, Dr. Razi said Commissioner John J. McCann (D-26th Dist.), who represents Canton Township and who serves as chairman of the subcommittee, refused to let him speak.

Dr. Wells met informally Friday with Wayne County Board of Commissioners Chairman Robert E. Fitzpatrick, who will serve on the ad hoc committee to study the proposal.

Also on the committee will be the county board of auditors and the board of county institutions, the five-member policy board for the hospital.

Although no definite date has been set for further meetings, the committee soon should be attempting to evaluate the merits of the proposal.

New Boston teen is in speaking contest

A New Boston teenager was one of nine high school orators from four states who were featured speakers last week in a Better Living Rally held at Lansing.

Kathy Castillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Castillo, 20200 Clark St., New Boston, was one of the youths participating.

Earlier this month, Kathy, a senior at Adelphian Academy, a Seventh-day Adventist boarding school at Holly, won that school's oratorical contest and was selected to represent her school at the Lansing Rally.

The other young people participating also were representatives of the Adventist academies they attend in Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana or Michigan.

The students' speeches centered on the use of alcohol, drugs or tobacco. In speaking of the personal benefits she received from preparing her speech on alcohol, Kathy said it has helped her become more aware of the problems of the alcoholics and the dangers of social drinking.

Each student received a signed letter of appreciation from Gov. William Milliken and a personal gift from Mayor Gerald Graves.

The Better Living Rally is an annual event sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. It concentrates on bringing to the attention of teenagers the various problems they face and encourages them to become actively involved in doing something constructive about the problems.

An ordinance to provide for the payment of ambulance charges incurred by persons within the City of Romulus has been approved by the Romulus City Council.

The ordinance, to become effective 30 days after its publication, also provides and insures the collection of ambulance charges by including such charges in property tax statements, impounding of motor vehicles involved in accidents and the collection by legal action against persons who fail to pay ambulance charges.

Detailed provisions of the new ordinance is printed elsewhere in this issue.

The ordinance states that any person, partnership or corporation requiring the services of ambulance transportation in the event of an emergency is primarily responsible for the expenses and charges incurred and is required to pay promptly any and all ambulance service charges presented by the city.

In the event the city is required to pay the costs and expenses for any ambulance service in the city, due to the failure on the part of the responsible party, the city is empowered by the ordinance to demand full reimbursement, plus a service and administrative charge in the amount of $10.

The city council recently approved the payment of ambulance service costs in the amount of $3,433 to the Superior Ambulance Service of Southgate for emergency ambulance runs in the city. The runs were requested by the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol Division during 1971.

are concerned about their rights being violated because they feel the firearms law is contrary to the first amendment of the U. S. Constitution, granting citizens the right to bear arms in defense of self and property.

The ordinance prohibits persons from discharging firearms capable of injuring people, property or animals within the city limits.

The ordinance excludes persons firing in self-defense or those shooting with approved and licensed gun, skeet or trap clubs or at a licensed rifle range.

Prior written approval from the city's law enforcement agency and city clerk are required for persons who wish to participate in public shooting exhibitions in Romulus, and for those persons who discharge firearms on their own property. Clubs and ranges are required under the ordinance to apply for yearly licenses.

In opposing the new ordinance, Stewart contended the ordinance as approved by the council and the mayor is "like buying a new car and being told by the council and the mayor that you must park it in your garage and not drive it except to church on Sunday if you get a permit from the clerk."

"I am not opposed to a partial hunting ban in the city where the population is greater than areas that are still suitable for hunting. This decision would have to be made by the state upon recommendation of the city council," Stewart added.

"I am totally opposed to any gun control bills that are in violation of my rights under state and federal constitution," he said.

The council's adoption of the new gun control ordinance followed complaints of citizens residing in the Birch Run Cooperatives. The cooperatives are located on Goddard Road, off Wayne Road between Ecorse and Wick roads.

The industrial structure is located at 8820 Inkster Rd., Romulus, between Ecorse and Wick roads.

A building permit approving the construction of alterations required to convert the building for ice skating purposes has been approved by the Romulus Building Department.

The permit was requested by the Minor Hockey Arenas Inc. of 33512 Pawnee, Westland. The project's estimated cost is $35,000.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

"I'll never forgive you." Why? The scars or hurts, imagined or real, will never heal when or while there is a stubborn refusal to forgive and forget. There is certainly a peculiar quirk between our reasoning as individuals and as a nation. During a war, a hatred of the enemy exists. Afterwards, as a nation, we forgive and forget. The scars are removed and our one time enemies are friends. Yet, in person to person - day by day living - one time friends are enemies. It simply doesn't make sense.

A more disturbing reflection is how some people at times place themselves on a higher level than God. All of us are guilty of religious infidelities. But, when with humility, in an aloneness before God, we ask forgiveness for our faults, we know He will say, "I forgive." Since this is true, isn't it silly for people to refuse forgiveness to people for far less serious hurts? Whether you agree or disagree with this or any thought you read here weekly, your comments are welcome. Phone or write about them any time you wish ...

Stadium isn't answer to Detroit salvation

Prevailing urbanology insists that Detroit be raised again from the ashes and restored to its matriarchy over the frolicking and undisciplined suburbs.

The question of "Why" would require the collected wisdom of the ages but the question of "How" is pertinent.

Legions of thoughtful and concerned study groups and task forces have produced enough paper to fill an abandoned automobile factory but the magic formula has been elusive.

Now the Municipal Finance Commission has approved the sale of $126 million in bonds for a domed stadium on the Detroit riverfront on a $10.5 million site west of the Civic Center.

Thus the stadium will be built next door to the diadem of the Civic Center, Cobo Hall, which had a net operating loss of $210,721 for 1971-72 with an estimated $300,000 loss next year.

Ford Auditorium and the Veterans Memorial Building on the east are chronic money losers.

The idea of the $100 million Civic Center never was to turn a profit but to bring a flood of dollars into the city's economy, according to Director William L. Finnin.

It succeeded, he said, to the extent of $56 million in 1969-70 even though the red ink flowed in the Civic Center.

People who go to conventions in Detroit are more likely to patronize the hotels and bars nearby than buy appliances, do extensive banking, or in other ways improve the plight of the economy.

The big push for preservation, and now revival, started after World War II.

It intensified with the deterioration of the close-in business community, leaving vacant windows staring out at the traffic whizzing into the suburbs at night and back into Detroit the next morning.

The Civic Center and the new city-county building offered a bright new face of downtown. First Federal built a new bank, the Kern block was cleared.

But the freeways of the 1950s were fast and easy conduits for commuters.

Homes around Palmer Park and other areas by 1963 were selling for less than their assessed valuation. Urban renewal and other factors were reducing the city's property tax base by $100 million a year.

Now with the domed stadium in the public sector, Henry Ford II has planned a $400-$500 million complex of apartments, offices and a recreation area on the riverfront.

All of the attempts have been designed to buy preservation on the theory that dollars and plate glass can pump new life into a tawdriness inflicted by age and social change.

There is the semi-annual wringing of hands when another business moves to the suburbs, but the tortured hands are those of people with economic bases downtown and part of whose energies are spent in their own hometowns in the suburbs.

And over the years there has evolved a real or fancied fear of spending time in downtown Detroit. The Civic Center bookings have plummeted since the riot of 1967.

So there was developed the STRESS program (Stop The Robberies - Enjoy Safe Streets) in which a policeman with backup help posed as a decoy to attract, then arrest, muggers and purse snatchers.

Now the STRESS program is under fire because decoyed muggers tended to resist and were killed. Demands for its abolition are heard in the city.

The point is that a new stadium next to a convention center already running deeply in the red is not an answer to the problems that beset Detroit.

Downtown wits have renamed the statue of the Spirit of Detroit on Woodward The Jolly Green Giant and have rewritten the city's motto from "We shall rise again from the ashes" to better describe the outstretched arms of the statue as "What do you want from me?"

Detroit has housing problems, race problems and educational crises still unsolved, transportation and economic problems that can't be met by attracting suburbanites into the innercity midway.

Somewhat, if Detroit is going to make it, there has to be more of a reason to visit and live there than balloons and cotton candy.

The suburbs are building into entities of their own, with their own suburbs, and Detroit is - and has been for decades - losing whatever leadership it enjoyed because of its size and the services it offered.

That can't all be reversed by adding a stadium to the waterfront where red ink already laps at the shore.

...On gas rates, billboards, busing

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK State Representative 38th District

The Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC) has authorized Michigan Gas Utilities of Monroe to increase its rates by $574,842 a year to meet higher costs of wholesale gas supplies.

We won't know exactly what effect this will have on our rates as consumers until we get out first bills after the rate increase goes into effect, but they should be slight.

If you feel your rate increase is excessive and can't receive a satisfactory explanation from Michigan Gas Utilities, you can write to the director of the Public Service Commission in Lansing.

This is an area in which the PSC, as a state department, has authority. The legislature is not involved in the rate decision. However, if you have questions which neither the supplier nor the PSC will give you a satisfactory answer, write me at the state capitol and I will endeavor to find out what the rate change should be.

Before the legislature adjourned for its Easter recess, the House adopted a conference report on a bill to tighten state control of billboards along federal and state expressways and primary federal and state roads.

The adoption came only hours before a federal deadline for allocation of some $19.8 million in U.S. highway aid to Michigan.

The news media and some representatives of governmental agencies have made much of the fact that, unless Michigan adopted such regulations, it would lose a portion of its federal highway aid funds. Actually, this bill in several forms has been given through study and discussion over the last few years.

However, between those who wanted to keep the controls at a minimum, those who elected to eliminate billboard advertising altogether and the outdoor advertising industry itself, which is struggling to remain in business, there have been so many amendments and so much opposition to others, that it has been a monumental struggle for the legislature to develop a bill which would be fair to all concerned.

The new bill is far from perfect. After it has been in operation for a while, we will be able to see more clearly what more, if anything, has to be done. This measure, however, sets new standards which can be used as future guidelines.

Another controversial action of the House just before the recess was a vote to discharge the committee on constitutional revision and amendment from further consideration of an amendment which would prohibit the busing of students for any purpose from one district to another without parental permission.

I voted against this motion because the matter of school busing is before the federal courts and before congress. I don't feel that a change in Michigan law should be made before the matter is decided on a national level.

Admittedly, school busing is not going to solve the problems of desegregation and equal education of all children. It is, however, a tool which is being used, successfully in a number of areas, throughout the country. Furthermore, it's a factor and a problem which, I feel, cannot be solved by one state unless it is solved in others. I think this matter goes beyond the responsibility of any one legislature.

Both the House and Senate have acted to push school aid bills into enactment as soon as possible, so that our schools will know what to expect in amounts and directions of state aid for the coming school year.

Appropriations committees of both chambers are studying the bills, both of which provide for a higher level of funding than was asked by the governor.

The governor has signed into law several new bills of importance to local government and taxpayers.

One permits local units of government to cooperate in providing ambulance services, financed through special assessments. Another requires that property sold by a community hospital must be for that property's market value. The third allows for property tax refunds or additional billings, based on decisions on appeals to the State Tax Commission.

Our readers write

Write to legislature; get busing on ballot

To the editor:

I would like to make an appeal to women like myself, a mother deeply concerned about busing, but an uninfluential housewife.

The decisions of judges involved in the fate of our children have left too many unsatisfied citizens. I say no decision on busing will bring satisfaction to all unless, we, the people, have the democratic right to vote on the issue.

If all concerned mothers would write our lawmakers, whose addresses are conveniently printed in this newspaper every week, perhaps the voters of the United States can resolve the busing issue.

The students are our children, the public schools are supported by our taxes and the added expense of transportation for busing would be our expense. The decision should be ours!

Romulus council faulted by reader

To the editor:

For quite a while I, as a concerned citizen, have been attending the Romulus City Council meetings.

I can't help but being surprised, appalled and humored by these sessions. Some of the things that transpire lead one to believe he is sitting in the front row of a three-ring circus, not to mention having our city made the laughing stock of Wayne County by the press.

One realizes that past events necessitate some changes at the next city election.

How many Romulus citizens know that, after almost two years in office, the council president doesn't realize the full extent of his responsibilities.

He openly stated at one meeting that he didn't know that, in the absence of the mayor, he is acting mayor. At another meeting he could not comprehend sections of the city charter that were read to him.

Even I, a "lay" citizen could understand what was being read.

How often has the chairman called special meetings of the council and then has not showed up himself? Maybe the chairman cannot function without an audience.

During the strike by city employees, how often did the chairman or some of the other councilmen for that matter fail to make an appearance at the special meetings?

Some of our councilmen open their mouths constantly and show their ignorance while other sit behind a cloud of smoke and say nothing, but do contaminate my air.

One of our councilmen thinks that the city council supports the drug program in Romulus. That is highly incorrect. That goes to show you just how much interest is taken outside the council chambers.

Out of seven councilmen, one realizes our need for endorsement for such programs. On the other hand, one other councilman did take the time to stop at the Help Center to see what it's about.

So take notice you people of Romulus, these are the persons you elected to represent you.

State Police hit by hiring complaint

By DON HOENSHELL

Legislators have appropriated $15,000 for the Michigan State Police to hire a lawyer in defense against charges of racial discrimination. The state Civil Service Commission has already spent $10,000 on lawyers in the same case.

It stems from charges of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission (CRC) that the State Police hiring policies discriminate against non-whites and civil service tests are tailored for whites.

The CRC has ordered the State Police to stop hiring troopers until they put two black recruits, Joseph E. Graves Jr. and Robert Green Jr. on the payroll.

State Police Col. John R. Plants and Civil Service Director Sidney Singer have gone before Ingham County Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon to test the power of the Civil Rights Commission.

"If the order means we agree to a cessation of hiring by the State Police, we would not," Singer said. "We don't think they have the authority to do so or the power to make it stick."

Plants, whose department now has 24 non-whites, including six troopers, among 2,310 employees, added:

"The only racism in this whole thing is from the Civil Rights Commission."

The CRC has been holding hearings for weeks into the discrimination charges rising from the cases of Graves and Green. Green flunked the written civil service examination four times and Graves passed it on the second try, but dropped out of training school.

Two state legislators have sided with the State Police and Civil Service departments, but the case will have to be settled in the courts. Senator John F. Toepp (R-Cadillac) charged in a floor speech that the effect of the Civil Rights Commission move is to reduce State Police standards to achieve racial equality.

"If these things are allowed to happen to the State Police or any other agency, Lord help us," he said. "I don't feel that this is a prerogative of the Civil Rights Commission..."

Rep. Loren D. Anderson (R-Waterford Township) has sponsored a resolution to establish legislative intent on the recruiting and testing of State Police troopers.

"For some time there has been agitation that the recruitment policies of the Michigan State Police and the entrance standards...be lowered in order to encourage additional recruits," he said.

"To do this would be folly and would make a sham of the first-rate law enforcement Michigan now enjoys. The Michigan legislature has not and will not permit mediocrity in the ranks of the State Police."

The more serious court test is over the powers of the Civil Rights Commission to issue orders to the Civil Service Commission. The 1963 state constitution says: "The classified civil service shall consist of all positions in the state service... (The commission) shall classify all positions in the classified service according to their respective duties and responsibilities, fix rates of compensation...determine by competitive examination and performance exclusively on the basis of merit, efficiency and fitness the qualifications of all candidates for positions..."

The commission claims that constitutional power gives it authority to set and maintain the standards.

The same constitution created the Civil Rights Commission, using this language:

"It shall be the duty of the commission in a manner which may be prescribed by law to investigate alleged discrimination against any person because of religion, race, color or national origin in the enjoyment of the civil rights guaranteed by law and this constitution, and to secure the equal protection of such civil rights without such discrimination."

Civil Service Commission staffers insist this means that while the hiring authority is nailed down in the constitution, the power of the CRC is tied to state law.

"Even if they (CRC) had the power to halt hiring, they haven't completed their hearings (on Graves - Green) and couldn't issue it now," said one civil service official.

The case is the first major court test of Civil Rights Commission powers and follows by 18 months the order by Gov. William G. Milliken for a racial headcount of state employees.

The State Police later set equal opportunity goals calling from 288 non-whites in a total employment of 3,267 by June 30, 1976, an increase from one per cent to eight per cent.

The Civil Rights Commission ordered the State Police to halt academy training until the classes reflected the proportion of non-whites in the population of the state.

Head Start program needs parent concern

The Romulus Head Start Center is both a concept and a community facility. In concept, it represents the drawing together of all the resources — family, community, and professionals — which contribute to the child's total development.

It draws heavily on the professional skills of persons in nutrition, health education, psychology, social work and recreation. It recognizes that both paid and volunteer non-professionals can make important contributions.

The family is fundamental to the child's development. Parents play an important role in developing policies and will work in the centers and participate in the programs.

Romulus Community Schools

The program is organized around its classrooms and outdoor play areas. Provided in this set-up are health services, parent interviews and counseling, snacks and lunches for children and meetings of parents and other residents of the community. The space is arranged so as to permit working in small groups, individualized with children as the need arises. The Romulus Head Start Center services 56 boys and girls. It is by three teachers, and six para professionals, who are trained and work with the professional staff in the daily program. There also is a cook and an assistant who prepare snacks and lunches for the students.

The program is funded through the Title I Elementary and Secondary School Act (ESEA) and the Wayne County Intermediate School District Head Start budgets.

Supportive services for the Head Start Program are funded through ESEA Title I funds. Included are the following — a school nurse, school social worker, as well as the services of the school diagnostician and contracted services as needed.

The curriculum of the center is made up of all the experiences which the center makes possible for its children. There are many things to work with which stimulate exploration, creation, organization, questioning, verbalization, mastery, physical skills. There are adults and older boys and girls who protect, provide, give affection, restrain, encourage, and constantly, by words and action, open up new worlds to children about the world of things and people; there are peers to talk with, to play and work with, to learn from; there are music and rhythms and time for fantasy and dreaming.

The Romulus Senior High School has a child development program taught by Mrs. Ethel Lovette. Nine of these students who have been trained in her child development class are now spending one day per week in the Head Start Program, in order to put in practice with the children what they have learned. The students add a lot to the program because of their training and ages. The staff is especially fortunate in having four or five male students who the male children can identify with.

"Portrait of Jenny," a three-act comedy originally written by Robert Nathan and adopted in play form by Betty Knapp, will be presented by the Community Players on Friday and Saturday in the Belleville High School Auditorium.
Admission is $1.50. Tickets may be purchased at Hoot's Boots, Mel Cleaners or at the door on either night of performance. Curtain time is 8 p.m.
The story is that of an artist, Eben Adams who "finds himself" during the days of the depression with the help of a strange girl he meets in the park. As Eben grows mentally, the young girl, Jenny, matures from 15 to 28, within the short span of a single year.

Jenny is first a friend, then becomes a source of income as Eben begins the portrait that eventually makes him famous. But, before the portrait is finished, Jenny becomes someone very dear to him, too dear it seems for him to be able to accept what Jenny really is or was.
Eben Adams is played by David Salisbury and Jenny Appleton by Brenda Gollwitzer. Two characters were recently changed. They are Gus, the cab driver, now played by Tricia Price, and Anna, the landlady's daughter, by Kim Hogan.

The rest of the cast is as follows: Mrs. Spinny, an art dealer, Dorothy Florian; Arne, a Scandinavian artist, Gerry Machi; Britta, Arne's sister, Sue Young; Mr. Matthews, an art dealer, Bill Matthews; Emily, a friend of Jenny's, Sharon Matthews.
"Portrait of Jenny" is a beautiful story of a young artist finding love and success from the same source, having only to give up one to retain the other. We hope you are able to witness these touching moments.

Jane Fonda, Gene Hackman top stars

'The French Connection' best movie of year

HOLLYWOOD — "The French Connection," a slambang modern thriller about New York police chasing narcotics smugglers, has won the Oscar race with five Academy awards including best picture of the year.

The star of the film, Gene Hackman, won the best actor award. William Friedkin, the film's director, received the best director Oscar.

Jane Fonda won the goldplated statuette for best actress as the classy, cynical call girl of "Klute."

Honors for supporting players in Monday night's 44th annual movie academy presentations went to Ben Johnson and Cloris Leachman of "The Last Picture Show."

Johnson played the pool hall-movie house-cale proprietor and central citizen of a small, dusty Texas town. Miss Leachman portrayed the sex-starved, unfaithful wife of the high school football coach.

Named the best foreign-language film was Vittorio De Sica's "The Garden of the Finzi Continis," a story of a rich Jewish family in wartime Italy.

Isaac Hayes won the best song award for his "Theme from Shaft."

The emotional peak for a finery-spangled audience of 2,900 in the Music Center Pavilion came with the appearance of white-haired Charlie Chaplin to receive an honorary Oscar and a standing, roaring ovation.

"Words are so futile, so feeble," he said in a halting, shallow voice after acknowledging the long ovation with waves, smiles, thrown kisses and slight bows.

"I can only say thank you for the honor of inviting me here. You're wonderful, sweet people."

Master of ceremonies Jack Lemmon handed him a

Chaplinesque cane and bowler, the hat falling off his head as Chaplin did a comic gesture with it. The comedian's wife Oona and stars of the show gathered around him as the orchestra played a Chaplin song, "Smile."

Academy President Daniel

Taradash had inducted the longtime self-styled from Hollywood to recte, six days short of his 83rd birthday, the award for "the calculable effect he has had on making motion pictures the art form of this century."

Chaplin appeared onstage after a showing of clips from his films - Chaplin's "Little Tramp" sleeping in the lap of a ceremoniously unveiled statue, using the referee as his shield in a boxing match, eating his boiled sh in "The Gold Rush."

Among leading contenders for Oscars, "Fiddler on the Roof" won three - for cinematography, song and scoring.

"Nicholas and Alexandra" won for costume design, art direction and set decoration. The five awards for "The French Connection" included two for Ernest Tioman's adaption and Jerry Grenberg's editing.

The other writing award went to Paddy Chayefsky for his original script of "The Hospital."

The show was telecast to 39 countries including, by NBC estimate, 75 million U.S. viewers. Union difficulties that could have interfered with telecasting were averted in the last hours.

Local players in rehearsal

The Wayne-Westland Civic Theatre is now in rehearsal for its upcoming production of "Portrait in Black," a murder mystery by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts.

Danny Myers heads the cast as Dr. Philip Graham with Karen Wendt in the female lead as Mrs. Tanis Talbot. Riley Tadlock portrays Robert Malone, lawyer and friend of the Talbot family.

Others in the cast include Al LaCroix as Cab O'Brien, Bill Hoffman as Blake Ritchie, Glen Guernsey as Peter, Linda Murdock as Winifred Talbot and Isabel Barrett as Gracie McPhee.

Production dates are April 21-23 at John Glenn High School, Westland.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the players, the Westland Chamber of Commerce, at the box office the evening of the performance or by calling ticket chairman, Mrs. Anne Button, 261-3183. Group rates are available.

'Nanette' cast to help model in fashion show

Kicky costumes from the 20's and a snappy spring showcase of fashion will point out the parallels in clothes which frequently appear in mid-century at a special mini-revue at 2 p.m. next Tuesday at the Detroit Institute of Arts Auditorium.

"Nanette" cast members will model costumes which are worn in the show designed by Raoul Pene du Bois. He is partly credited for the nostalgic mood of much of contemporary fashion.

From the pleated hip chemises in Art Deco combinations of beiges, olive, black, and tango red in the first scene to the elaborately beaded evening chemises in the finale, the women's clothes are the mid-20's straight from the dusty pages of the Parisian haute couture. Raoul calls the men's clothes "a background for the women" despite all the six-color Art Deco sweaters, bright blazers with white pants and jazzy dinner suits.

Among the many musicals and revues Pene du Bois has designed the costumes for are "Life Begins at 8:40," "Carmen Jones," "Too Many Girls," "The Music Man" and "Gypsy."

Providing a contrast at the mini-revue will be a presentation of modern fashions which, while hinting at a debt of inspiration to the past, are obviously created for the modern woman. Produced by Fashion Unlimited, a new group of business women working in fashion and related fields, the mini-revue will feature fashions from Saks Fifth Avenue, the J.L. Hudson Company, Himelhoch's, B. Siegel, Milgrim's, Winkelman's, Crowley's and Margaret Diamond.

Fashions will be modeled by some of Detroit's top-flight models who along with the stars and cast of "No, No, Nanette," and Fashion Unlimited are donating their time and services for the special mini-revue.

Area art collectors donate works for show

The exhibition is unique from two aspects, said curator Ellen Sharp. "Each collector has developed a particular theme 'in depth' to an extent notable for taste and vigor. Also, this is the first public showing for many of these exceptional works, ranging from luscious color lithographs to the starkly aristocratic 'black' works in engravings and drawings."

Founders Society members will be invited to a preview-reception of "Detroit Collects Prints & Drawings" from 8 to 10 p.m. tonight.

The exhibition will be open to the public during regular museum hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

EVICTED SCENE - The Sumpter Township Police Department is investigating this scattered pile of household goods left behind after a family was evicted in the vicinity of Judd Road near Sumpter Road. The pile of refuse was left behind near the premises of the evicted family. The township rubbish contractor does not pick up heavy items, and it has been pointed out by township officials that it is the responsibility of the owner to see that such items are removed.

Industrial coordinator starts fitness program

"The human body is the only machine that breaks down when not used. Moreover, it is the only mechanism that functions better the more it is put to use."

The above statement is from Van Buren Township's Industrial Coordinator, Benjamin Robertson, who has initiated a physical fitness program in the township.

"Although a man may grow older in years, the major physical ailments of aging, chronic fatigue, headaches, shortness of breath, digestive upset, overweight, and some forms of heart and circulatory trouble can be avoided or postponed for as much as 15 years by a daily program of body conditioning and active recreation," Robertson said.

The young industrial coordinator, formerly of Alma and director of a YMCA fitness program there, stated he is not only interested in the industrial development of the township, but also of its citizens.

The fitness class meets three times weekly at the Belleville Senior High School gymnasium. The class is held on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. When class is cancelled due to unavailability of space, it will be announced.

"It's never too late to begin getting into shape, but it does take daily, sometimes painful, perseverance. After all, you can't expect in a week's time to make over a body that took years to wreck," Robertson said.

"Some of the benefits derived from a sustained guided physical program are that you will sleep better, work better, relax more and be able to control your weight without strenuous dieting," he added.

The fitness program will consist of a planned building up process of jogging and exercise geared basically for the individual who has not been active for a number of years and has started to accumulate the so-called "middle-age sag."

Those attending the class will exercise three times weekly plus take part in a recreation time that will include volleyball, basketball, badminton and other related activities.

For further information about the fitness class, call Robertson at 941-0434.

Wastewater fees paid by industry, business

Michigan industries and commercial enterprises have paid $650,000 in wastewater surveillance fees to the state for the fight against water pollution, according to a report to the Michigan Water Resources Commission during its March meeting sessions held in Monroe.

The funds represent the first such billings from a state agency to industry in the country, according to the commission staff. Monies received, to be used for increased state monitoring of industrial and commercial wastewater discharges, came from 91 per cent of the companies billed under the 1970 "Truth in Pollution Law," according to a recent report.

The commission will review any accounts not paid by the April meeting and decide on any needed enforcement proceedings.

Communities in the River Raisin Basin were called before the commission during the March meeting to discuss their sewage treatment needs and plans. The commission commended the community representatives for their cooperative attitude in the coordinated program to improve the water quality of the River Raisin system.

In a review of the status of 58 municipal and industrial waste treatment projects, the commission noted that several community projects are being held up by lack of funds, due to the uncertain availability of federal construction grants.

Port Huron officials were reprimanded for failure to construct a temporary sewer line around a pipe break which has caused bypassing of sewage into the St. Clair River.

City engineers presented a slide presentation of their attempts to repair the broken sewer line, which have been hindered by costly engineering problems from weather and soil conditions. "If your city were an industry, you'd be getting daily pollution fines by now," noted Alvin Balden, the commission's industry representative.

New Romulus Troop 1739 picks committee members

Romulus VFW Post 9568, sponsors of the new area Boy Scout Troop 1739, Monday announced the membership of the troop's new committee. They are:

Kidder; Scoutmaster, John Greca and Assistant Scoutmaster, Corsetti Jahner.

Any interested boy who wants to join the troop may call any of the following members: Tom Greca at 941-4672 or Larry Wasvary at 941-5574.

The activities scheduled for the month of April include a day hike in Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford on April 15 and a camp out at Bishop Lake on April 28-30.

The troop has scheduled a car wash at the Martin's Marathon Service Station, located at South Wayne and Wick roads in Romulus on April 8.

The meetings of the troop are held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesdays in Room 400 at the Romulus Senior High School.

Members of the troop would like to publicly thank Martin's Marathon Service Station for helping the scouts earn money for its many needs.

Jaycees look for members

The Romulus Jaycees are conducting a membership drive in the City of Romulus. The Jaycees are hopeful of expanding the club's membership to better serve the city, Lee Silvey, membership chairman, said.

Persons interested in joining the Jaycees are asked to call 941-0299 for further information or write to the Romulus Jaycees, P.O. Box 35, Romulus, Mich. 48174.

FERA celebrates birthday

The silver anniversary of the Ford Employee Recreation Association (FERA), started in 1947 by a group of Ford Motor Co. employees, will be held on Friday at the Raleigh House in Southfield.

Since 1947, FERA has grown to 32 clubs and associations involving a total of 22,187 members.

The non-profit corporation was founded for the purpose of developing fellowship and understanding among employees of Ford Motor Co. through the promotion of social, physical, cultural and special programs.

Horses' hearing scheduled

The Sumpter Township Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. April 12 at the Sumpter Township Hall, 23463 Sumpter Rd.

The hearing will be on a request made by John LaMonica of Sumpter, who is seeking a variance of the township zoning ordinance relative to keeping and grazing four riding horses on a five-and-a-half-acre quarter-acre land parcel, located on the north side of Willis Road between Haggerty and Clark roads.

The land is presently zoned R1-A (single residential).

Linen party set Sunday

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Huron River Post No. 4434 of Belleville will hold its linen party at the Polish National Alliance (PNA) Hall, at Harris and Sumpter roads at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Sophie Zoller, auxiliary president, has extended an invitation to the public to attend the linen party.

Hose hideaway

Faucet, coiled hose and sprinklers can be concealed under wood deck or walkway, with hinged cover of decking over storage spot.

Fourteen citizens of Summit Township in Jackson County who are protesting plans for sewer construction in their area were represented in a commission hearing Friday morning. Recorded testimony by the citizens' representatives and commission staff members will be reviewed further by the commission, along with previous proceedings relating to Summit Township.

Following Friday's (March 17) meeting sessions, the commission toured the Detroit Edison power plant at Monroe, which is under state water use orders, and the newly expanded and upgraded waste treatment plant for the city.

Monroe officials said two-thirds of the treatment plant capacity will be used for treating industrial wastes from the city's paper mills, previously a major pollutant of the River Raisin.

Budget approval delayed

Formal approval of a proposed 1972-73 operating budget for Van Buren Township has been deferred.

A public hearing on the proposed budget was held on March 28, but due to the absence of Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer, who prepared the budget, and Trustee Dominick W. Blend, final action of the budget was postponed until Gollwitzer returns from a Florida vacation.

The budget as presented reflects an increase of about 24 per cent in total expenditures. The budget for the new fiscal year, which started April 1, was tentatively set at $527,560 as against total expenditures of $426,683 last year.

Township Clerk Mrs. Erma Jean Payne presided at the public hearing, but because several questions on the budget could not be immediately answered, it was decided to wait for the return of Gollwitzer.

Proposed budgets for the police department, the public works department and the parks and recreation department show the largest increases.

Estimated revenues for the new year are reported at $444,980 as against $365,708 in the 1971 year.

Detailed budget totals will be published when finally approved by the township board.

Hearing on tap

The Sumpter Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) at the township hall, 23483 Sumpter Rd.

The public hearing was called to decide a request for a variance of the township's zoning ordinance filed by John LaMonica.

LaMonica seeks to keep and graze four riding horses in an R1A district (single family residential) on a 5½ acres of land, located on the north side of Willis Road, between Haggerty and Clark roads.

School board meet changed

The Huron Board of Education has postponed the date of the April board meeting.

The regularly scheduled session of April 17 has been changed to April 24.

Roll Call found present: Supervisor Parraghi, Treasurer Roberts, Absent; Clerk Hoffman, Trustees: Brown, Humphreys, Banotai, and Krajewski.

The meetings will continue to be held on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday of each month. Signed Clarence J. Hoffman Jr., Clerk. Letter dated April 3, 1972.

Respectfully submitted,
Amanda Roberts, Treasurer

EEA funds check asked

City Council President Jimmie Raspberry has requested of Mayor Lyle J. Carmichael a report on the operation of the federal Emergency Employment Act (EEA) program in the City of Romulus.

Raspberry requested a report on the amount of money received from the EEA program, amount of funds so far expended and the number of employees hired under the program.

The city has received an EEA allotment of $109,000 from the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the local federal agent for the allocation of EEA funds, to relieve the city's unemployment situation.

The city has hired 17 of the city's unemployed since the program was initiated in February.

The city council, at a February council session, approved the creation of an EEA budget and had designated the Wyandotte Savings Bank as the depository of funds.

The new employees have been assigned to various city departments, including the Department of Public Works and the Recreation Department.

The council president also requested a report from the Romulus police chief, Jacob Koch, on what action has been taken to enforce the inoperable motor vehicles ordinance and other ordinances in the city.

A request also was made to the city's dog warden, George Hartgrove, on what is being done on stray dogs in Romulus.

Health department has measles control clinic

Michigan's director of public health says regular, 7-10 day measles is continuing to break out in significant numbers across the state. Calling it "a cause for concern," Dr. Maurice S. Reizen noted that state health department personnel have been working with several communities in efforts to head off the potential threat of local "epidemics" of the disease.

The Wayne County Department of Health conducts regular immunization clinics and also offers to help local community groups set up immunization programs in their communities.

Located on Merriman Road just north of Michigan Avenue, the county department offers immunizations against "hard measles" and rubella at a charge of $1 per person per visit. The clinic is open on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and Monday through Friday afternoons from 1 to 3:30 p.m., no appointment necessary.

For a Wednesday evening appointment from 7 to 9 p.m., call PA 1-0200 or 274-2800, extension 6891.

The Wayne County Department of Health also conducts regular child health and immunization clinics in Hamtramck, Harper Woods, Romulus, Lincoln Park, Livonia, Rockwood and Taylor. For information on these, call the above telephone numbers.

Dr. Reizen noted, "At one time, it appeared measles was well on its way to eradication in Michigan. But since 1970, the growing number of unvaccinated children has created a large unprotected population. The disease is beginning to reach this population. We have had 622 reported cases in the state so far this year."

"We estimate that another 5,500 unreported cases have occurred. These represent lost school days, and sometimes lost working days for a parent who has to stay at home to take care of an ill child. They represent added family expense in terms of medicines and of physicians' bills. And they may represent real dangers to the health of some of these children," the doctor said.

Regular or "hard" measles is an entirely different disease from rubella, the so-called three day "German measles." Regular measles is popularly supposed to be harmless, but recent studies show there are some frightening consequences to the disease. Dr. Reizen points out that, "One in 15 children who have measles develop complications like pneumonia, bronchitis, ear infection, or a neurological problem. Fifty percent of the children who have the disease may develop complications which lead to general poor health, to slow learning, to personality and behavior changes."

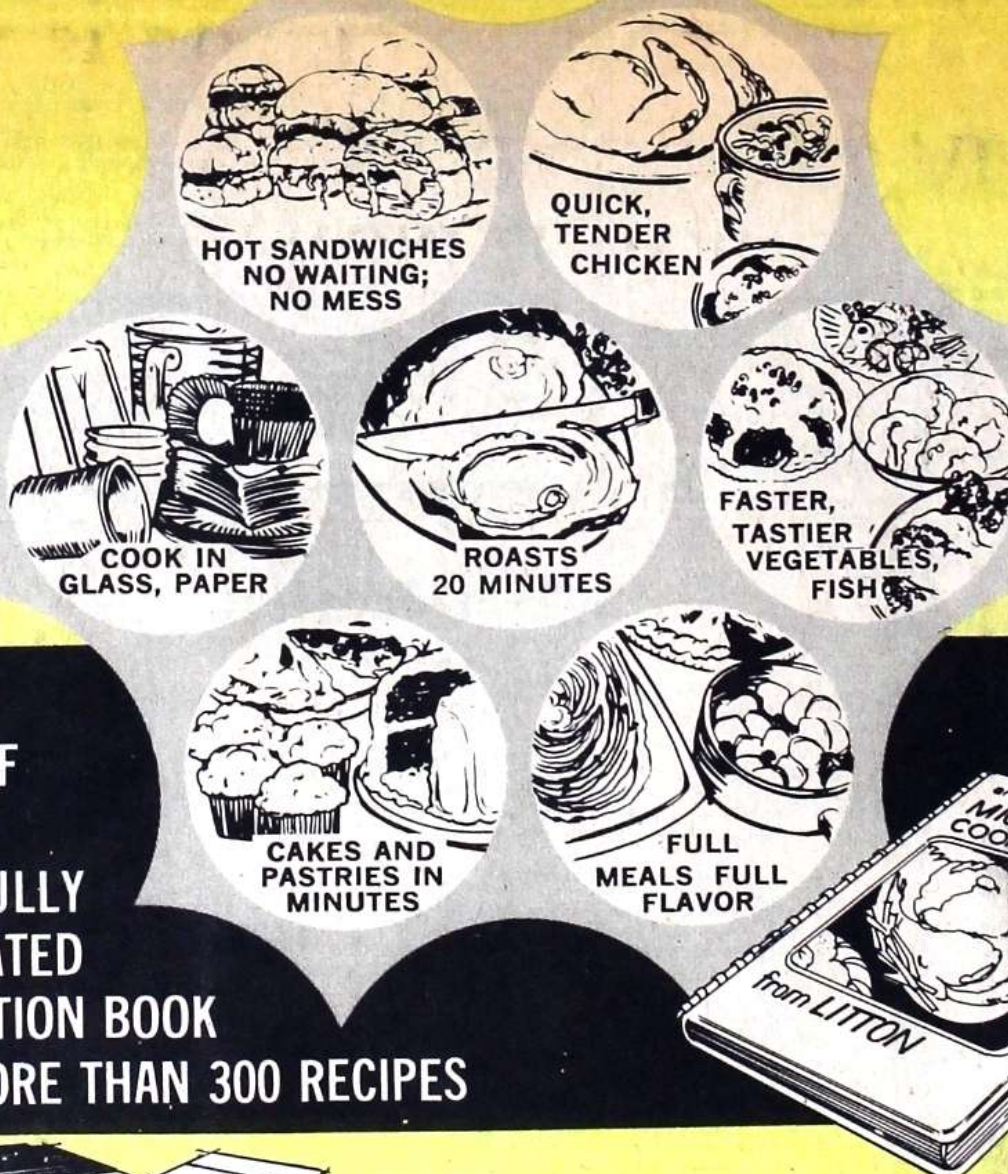

Recently, state and local health department staff conducted a crash immunization program in Kalamazoo, vaccinating about 5,000 kindergarten through sixth graders, after 25 cases of measles broke out in one school. Back in November and December, more than 200 cases occurred in Lansing. That outbreak was curtailed by an intensified control effort in which over 6,000 public and parochial students were immunized.

According to Dr. Reizen, "Some of the cases have occurred in children who were previously vaccinated -- but whose vaccination was originally administered when they were less than one year old. We are urging all parents whose children were vaccinated this early, and all parents whose children are over 12 months of age and not yet vaccinated, to contact their family physician or local health department to get them an immediate measles immunization."

The Wayne County Department of Health has recently assisted local Jaycees, Kiwanis, school groups and various other community groups in setting up measles, rubella and other immunization programs. For information about conducting an immunization program in your community, call Dr. Paul A. Babas at 274-2800 or 721-0200, extension 6886.

OPENING DAY SETBACK - Romulus' first-year head baseball Coach Bill Cuhran took over the reins last week and found the going rough as his Eagles dropped an opening day 4-0 decision to Cherry Hill in a nonleague confrontation. Romulus' remaining games for last week were wiped out because of inclement weather conditions, giving the rookie coach an opportunity to better assess his team's weak spots.

Cherry Hill '9' spoils coach Cuhran's debut

"Disappointed" - that was the word Romulus' first year baseball Coach Bill Cuhran used to describe his feelings after the Eagles dropped their opening day game to Cherry Hill last week, 4-0.

Where I thought we would be the strongest - on defense - we proved to be inadequate," said Cuhran who has taken over from Lowell Johnson this year. "Needless to say that I was very disappointed at our team's performance."

Sports meridian

Coach's key man - - - statistician

By TOM MOORADIAN

What happens to high school athletes who don't make the college sports scene. Well, some forget sports and move to the sidelines to watch the action; others play intramurals while still others become statisticians.

In the later category falls former Wayne St. Mary's high cager and basketball standout, Stephen Schwartz, who is presently in his senior year at the University of Michigan.

A math major, Steve's the Wolverines' "computer", so accurate are his stats, that he's considered among the best statisticians in the university's history - and that's saying a lot.

STEVE SCHWARTZ
Fast with figures

You may have to be on the field in order to earn All-American recognition, but that recognition will be difficult to come by if the man who handles the stats goofs.

Just ask Steve, he'll tell you.

Another All-Area baseball star, Rick Kaminiskis has left the sports scene for an army career. Rick who earned an All-Area berth in baseball in 1967 while playing for his father at Belleville High School recently received his commission as a lieutenant and left for Anchorage, Alaska with his new bride. Rick's older brother, Roger, is a captain in the U.S. Air Force and is presently serving at Fort Sheridan. Roger also caught for the Belleville ball club - way back in 1960-61.

Will there be another Kaminiskis on the Tigers soon? It's very doubtful.

Vitold Kaminiskis, the veteran Belleville coach of 23 seasons, says that No. 3 son, Ronald, is a ninth grader, "but Ron loves music more than he does baseball."

Two out of three is a pretty good average, wouldn't you say?

If I published the Glenn Rockettes names who handled the chores of reporting wrestling scores during the season, would I give the girls who keep track of the Rocket matters a plug?

You bet I will. (But what I can't figure is why Glenn needs so many girls to keep track. Eleven petite "net maids" whose spokesman is team manager, Pat Ourilian, are responsible to keep communications going between their Rockets and the mass media.)

Helping out are Boni DaMaka, Genie Genslak, Jerri Ann Fullerton, Roberta Pollack, Nancy Coleman, Cindy Whited, Deb McGrath, Carol Moreno, Barb Borland, and Debbie Courtier.

Chiefs turned back, 4-1

Huron opens with loss

By TOM MORIDIAN

Defying the weather, Huron opened the 1972 Huron Conference baseball season last week on the short end of a 4-1 decision against Monroe Catholic Central. Coach Ron Smith's Chiefs bounced back late in the week to stop nonleague rival, Riverview Gabriel Richard, 11-6.

Though Huron out-hit its league rival, Catholic Central broke a 1-all third inning deadlock with three runs in the sixth inning and pitcher Leon Weiss, who worked the last three innings, chalked up the victory.

Huron had the lead in the third when Art Sarkkinen and Dana Kemp walked. They moved up on Mario Gracia's sacrifice and, with the count of 2-3 on Chuck Pearson, Sarkkinen and Kemp pulled off an unexpected double steal.

Ron Thompson, who has matured into a 5-foot-9, 200-pound senior righthander suffered the opening day loss as he gave up three hits, fanned eight and walked five. The Chiefs collected four hits off of Weiss and sophomore Bennie Bonk, who started for the Monroe aggregation.

each of the third and fourth innings, then exploded for five runs in the sixth to overpower Gabriel Richard for their first victory of the season.

Junior southpaw hurler Gary Whitehouse, who gave up one hit and whiffed seven while walking eight, got relief help from Ken Delano to card the victory. The two Huron pitchers served up only two hits.

Gabriel scored in the opening inning and held on to a 1-0 lead until the third when, with one away, Sarkkinen walked. Then Tim Hinojosa fanned and Ron Suennick, younger brother of former Huron star, Butch, got on a base on balls. With men on first and second, Dana Kemp connected for his first of three hits to load the bases.

LOSING DEBUT - Failing to get the defensive support he needed, Romulus' Sam Ruffolo was tagged with the loss against Cherry Hill last week, the only game the Eagles and area preps managed to get in before the record-low temperatures hit. Ruffolo went four innings, surrounding the mound to Bob Eves who finished up.

IN CLASS B Huron is shooting for state track title

Can New Boston Huron win the state Class B state track championship this season?

Second year head coach Keith Reed thinks the Chiefs can pull it off.

"We have an excellent chance," said Reed whose optimism has spread like a forest fire over the Chiefs. "I feel we can place in the 880-relay, the mile relay, the 440, 680 and I feel we have a sprinter who should do well in the 100 and 220-yard dashes and we also should score in the mile and two-mile events."

And if you add those up, you know the Huron coach isn't just whistling Dixie. He has a serious state title contender.

If the Hurons fail to realize their dream it will partially be due to their lack of field power.

"We definitely hurt in the field events," said Reed. "We don't have a shot putter yet who can go over 35 feet and our pole vaulting is also inadequate and, teams such as Grosse Ile and Catholic Central, are loaded in these events."

However, Reed reaffirmed his stand that his team would be among the best in the state Class B ranks this season. The Chiefs, who finished with a 7-7 dual meet record and a sixth place in their conference, will open their league season tomorrow at home to Airport. They had a nonleague tuneup last night against Ida.

Two holdovers from last year's team, Dan Clark and Forrest Coop, who captured All-Area honors as juniors, bolster the Chiefs' hopes of realizing their dreams.

Clark has posted a 50.6 for the 440, while Coop has covered the 2-mile in a 10:10 and the Huron coach "is looking for great things" from both athletes.

The Chiefs also have an excellent quarter-miler in junior Ed Fakhoury who has been clocked in 52 seconds. Sprinters Roger Miles and Dave Durham, miler Paul Engle are also among the "blue chip" athletes whom Coach Reed is relying upon. Huron placed 14 in a field of 72 at the Eastern Michigan University Huron Relays with their foursome of Ed Fakhoury, Miles, Engle and Clark finishing second behind Ecorse for the 2-mile relay. The foursome was clocked at 8:30.1. The mile relay placed fifth and Reed used Fakhoury, Miles, Engle and Don Bennett for the event. They had a 3:41.1 clocking.

Umpire's group plans expansion

The Westland Athletic Officials Association is planning to expand its services to Wayne this season, according to George Gillis, president of the group.

"We serve Westland presently," said Gillis, "and we feel we should serve Wayne as well as other cities. We're inviting anyone who is interested to contact us."

Gillis will handle softball and Class E,D,F baseball leagues.

The newly formed Metro Traveling League, headed by the World Champions Little Caesar's and Westland's Daly drive in, along with six more of the finest softball teams in the country, has appointed Gillis as "Umpire-in-Chief."

The organization also plans to conduct several baseball clinics for Wayne and Westland.

Further information may be obtained about the organization by contacting Gillis at 722-1284.

three run triple to empty the bases.

However, Gabriel came up with three runs in the bottom frame of that inning to make it a 4-3 ball game in their favor. The Chiefs retaliated in the fourth, getting three more runs that gave them the lead for good.

In the sixth, Delan singled but was forced at second on Whitehouse's fielder's choice. Sarkkinen also walked and Gracia drove in the first run with a single. After Sumenick fanned, Kemp chased two more runs in with a single.

Thompson's bases-loaded double in the sixth accounted for three of the five runs in that inning while Gracia singled home Pearson earlier.

"I have to be satisfied with our pitching," said Coach Smith, "we have looked pretty strong on the mound. And we also hit our opponents. Defensively, we have made two errors that cost us runs and I feel we're hitting better than we have a year ago."

Huron will resume league play today at Carlson and will host Grosse Ile on Friday if the Chiefs' diamond is ready.

Belleville hosts Wayne in debut

Belleville will get down to work on Friday. After taking off one week because of the weather, Coach Vitold Kaminiskis starts his 23rd when his Tigers take the field at home to Wayne Memorial at 4 p.m.

And the veteran Belleville coach is "looking for an improvement" over the last two years when his Tigers' hitting failed to materialize.

"One of our major problems in the last couple of years is that we failed to hit," said Kaminiskis, "who has been noted for his splendid ball clubs. 'I feel we will have the boys who can do the job this year.'"

Belleville will face two new league rivals. The Tigers will play Edsel Ford and Dearborn which have been admitted into the expanded Suburban 8 Conference and Kaminiskis has plenty of respect for both ball clubs.

"Edsel Ford is tough," said Bell the Belleville coach. "We have played them over the years as a nonleague rival and know they always produce good teams. Last year, in fact, they beat our champ, Redford Union."

The inaugural Suburban 8 Conference title war will begin next week when Belleville will travel to Livonia Bentley on Tuesday.

Kaminiskis has three pitchers he is looking at for the starting rotation and the No. 1 man is Vern Gowen who came on strong last year. Also among the mound candidates are righthander Dave Billings and southpaw Steve Theodore, a senior.

The Belleville mentor has moved Mike Dansard behind the plate while at first, Ed Branam, is back. Rick White, a strong defensive player, will fit into third or shortstop in this year's strategy while Jim McCoy, Larry Brakeman and Mike Koike round out the depth chart.

"Our attitude has been good," said Kaminiskis, "and if we can find the hitters, this team will be a good one."

ALLENDALE — "Youth" .. "added depth" .. "good speed" .. all help to describe Grand Valley's growing track program under coach Bill Clinger. As the Laker squad moves from the indoor to the outdoor season, Clinger expects added improvements in several of the field and running events. Clinger says his mostly freshman and sophomore team of last year, which is gaining experience and maturity, plus some eager and talented freshmen, should combine for the Lakers best outdoor season in the four-year history of the outdoor track program at Grand Valley.

A major factor at the moment is the weather, which to date has kept the team inside the Field House on the indoor track. With the season opening this Saturday at Calvin College, it appears the Lakers will have little opportunity to adequately prepare for performing on a outdoor running surface.

With one exception, the Laker squad is in near perfect condition for the spring season. The lone exception is Larry Thomas, whose collegiate track career is in serious question at the moment. The senior trackman from Romulus, who holds outdoor school records in the long jump (21' 7") and the 100-yard dash (10.1) is still bothered by a knee injury suffered late last year. Tim Kohane, a sophomore decathlon entry from Grand Rapids West Catholic, is fully recovered from his foot injury. Thomas and Kohane both sat out the winter track season.

Other returning veterans include Dean Todd (senior, Parchment), high jump and hurdles; Nick Chorny (senior, Grand Haven), pole vault; John Fix (sophomore, Rockford), Long and triple jumps and relays; Kohane, long and triple jumps and relays; Dean Breest, distance events; and Dennis Harris (senior, Grand Rapids Union), hurdles.

Three transfer juniors ... Bill Vogt from St. Clair Shores South Lake, Tom DePoy from Muskegon Mona Shores, and Roger McLain from Grand Rapids West Catholic ... will give strength to the distance events.

Outstanding freshmen include Rick Cooley of Jonesville, high jump and pole vault; Joe Smith, Eaton Rapids, shot put; Lance Morley, Chaalotte, pole vault; Chuck Taylor, Muskegon, distance; Bob Eubanks, Grand Rapids Union, sprints and relays; Dave Black, Muskegon, sprints and relays; and Rick Brohman, Berrien Springs, sprints and relays. Added speed in the sprints will come from freshman Ron Weathersby of Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills, who recently joined the team.

Horse-handling clinic features area girl rider

A 14-year-old New Boston girl will be among the riders at the American Saddle Horse Association of Michigan's clinic.

Miss Margaret Burgess, of 27117 Waltz Rd., New Boston, will ride her Morgan horse in the forthcoming horsemanship and horse handling clinic. The clinic will be staged on April 15 and 16 at the park Chapman Stables, located at 11230 Cornuna, Lemon, Michigan. (About 10 miles west of Flint.)

The clinic is not a competitive event. Nominations are limited and have always been keen. The clinic is aimed at horse owners who care for their own horses without the aid of a trainer.

The American Saddle Horse Association of Michigan will present Dick Wallen, of Sioux City, Iowa, a noted horseman, trainer, ASHA judge and instructor as its featured speaker.

Wallen will demonstrate with horse and rider the basic principles of Saddle Seat Equitation, proper attire, proper equipment, advanced riding and figure work.

He will also offer an opportunity for riders who have had some instruction and are either at the intermediate or advanced level to further their skills in the art of Saddle Seat riding.

The organization is not equipped to handle the beginning rider, however. Saturday's schedule, which begins at 10 a.m. includes horse handling. Also included are demonstration with horse and ride in the basic principles of the saddle seat riding, hands - feet - seat position and proper attire.

On Sunday, there will be a junior group riding session. Tickets for the Saturday and Sunday shows are $2.00 per day. For further information contact Mrs. Jay Leech, 5279 Sheridan Ave., Durand, Michigan or phone 313-621-3768.

There you are Pat, see I'm not as mean as they say I am around Glenn, am I?

My righthand man, Dann Baakume, has moved over to the Garden City beat. He wants to take a crack at something other than sports.

Dann has provided the area with some colorful reporting and has been a tremendous help to me and the sports department in the two years he has served us.

We wish him all the luck in the world.

Jim Chronowski isn't the easiest guy in the world to catch up with, but when the Wayne Memorial baseball coach is around he always have some interesting notes.

Like the other night, Chronowski offered this bit about the continuing saga of girls mingling with boys in high school sports.

"We had a freak accident the other day on the diamond," related Chronowski. "One of our boys, Brian Hopton, took a line drive in the face and really messed up his dental ware."

"The ball loosened the bottom four teeth, fractured the jaw bone and, anyway, an oral surgeon wants something like $1,200 to do the repairs. And that, for anyone these days, is a lot of money."

"The Blue Cross will not cover the repair to the teeth but not compensate the work for the wiring needed in the jaw bone, so the family will have to pay."

Chronowski said that in his discussion with Mrs. Hopton, Brian's mother, he said "she took it very calmly."

"Do you know what she said," Chronowski asked rhetorically. "She said, 'I would rather have him in sports than standing on a street corner.'"

"Now, what if we had girls on the team and that happened to a girl, it would be rather difficult for us," said Chronowski. "I'm not against girls in athletics, but I feel they should play with their peers where there would unlikely would be such a serious mishap."

Jim Dollaway can now turn his thoughts from coaching to the athletic directorship at Cherry Hill High School with a smile.

Dollaway bowed out of coaching Spartan baseball last year and his final appearance as the head coach was a nightmare. Cherry Hill was wallowed by Dearborn Edsel Ford 13-0 in its pre-district confrontation and that brought Jim's coaching career to an end—he thought.

Dollaway was drafted into service Monday afternoon when the newly selected Spartan coach Jess Shough accompanied the seniors on their trip to the Bahamas. Shough didn't make it back to town until late Monday night in time to learn that the Spartans blanked a well-balanced Romulus aggregation, 4-0.

"Now, at least, I can say that I bowed out of coaching a winner," quipped Dollaway.

Dollaway gave up the coaching reins to become the school's full-time athletic director.

"I know I'm going to miss coaching," he said, "but there are so many other things to do that you really don't have time to think about it."

Though it seems we're not going to have much of a spring around these parts, I hope prep coaches don't forget that the spring sports season has already begun.

We will be waiting for the results of those baseball, track and tennis contests, manning the desk from 5 p.m. until midnight during the week and on Sundays from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

So if you have anything to offer the reading public - how about phoning in the info.

The "hot line" is 729-4000.

Ted Wild, the muscular baseball coach at Inkster High School, would like to get some muscle into the school's baseball program. And the sophomore coach feels it could be done if the school had a diamond close by.

Wild's Vikings make the trek to Inkster Park, some eons away and, of course, fans feel that the diamond is like so many light years away. No one would argue that the cage fans would gladly follow their team into orbit to watch them play, but baseball, well,uh, huh.

"We go down into the park and the attendance at those game is almost zilch," said Wild, who figures he has a pretty solid ball club this year. "There is a diamond immediately behind the school but you couldn't play games on it."

"I've worked on the diamond and tried to get it into shape, but it's impossible. It has to be tilled and settled and the weeds killed," said Wild. "Last year I was able to mark off the field, but it stopped right there."

The Inkster coach said that his team manages to practice in the field despite the inconveniences that can be caused by the inconsistencies of an unlevelled infield and a weeded outfield.

However, Wild - who isn't easily discouraged at anything - is still optimistic of luring the fans to games if he can forge a title contender out of the remnant of a team that lost five starters.

"This team we have will be better than the one we had last year, you can count on that," says Wild and he has a couple of slugging cagers to back up his words.

Calvin Redding, the hot-shot jump shot artist, will be leading the Vikings in their quest to unseat Lutheran West and Taylor Center from the Mid-Wayne throne.

Redding batted .429 last year and his pitching arm could prove valuable on the mound. Teammate Cyrus Timmons, also a cage standout, is back at shortstop. Two others, sophomore James Crudup and Anthony Dickerson, at second and third bases, respectively, also hold the key to any title ambitions.

The Daily Eagle will keep tabs again on area high school trackmen and thanks to John Glenn Coach Szukaitis, we'll be able to give fans a weekly report on the top performances and times by our prep athletes.

Szukaitis will compile the listing which will be published in The Daily Eagle each Tuesday. The Rocket coach may be reached at his home after 7 p.m. at 728-4630 or at John Glenn High School (728-1800).

The building department issued 14 residential building permits having an estimated construction cost of $173,482. The February building total dipped slightly from the January total building cost of $220,215.

The total amount of permit fees collected by the building department in February was $3,001. This compares with $5,310 in January, Meldrum reported.

Tots make baskets

The Romulus Pre-School Nursery, held three days a week at Saint Aloysius Catholic school in Romulus, met the Easter Bunny more than half way this year.

In addition to making Easter baskets, under the guidance of Mrs. Jeannie Ursery, supervisor, the children brought the egg to put in it.

"They all arrived with little brown bags containing one smashed egg," said Mrs. Ursery, "but we colored it anyway and with the ice cream and cookies, we all had a grand time."

The nursery group, now in its third year, is sponsored by the Western Wayne County YWCA in cooperation with the Romulus Continuing Education Committee.

More than 90 children each week are given pre-school experiences through the program.

REHEARSAL AFTER REHEARSAL — The Belleville Community Players will present "Portrait of Jenny" at the Belleville High School Auditorium on April 14 and 15. David Salisbury, who portrays Eban Adams, is shown with Dorothy Florian and William Matthews, who play the roles of Mrs. Spenny and Mr. Matthews respectively. The play is about Adams and how he becomes a successful young artist through the painting of a model, Jenny.

County board takes positions on four bills

Following recommendations of its legislative committee, the legislative committee, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has taken strong positions on various bills pending before the state legislature which would affect county finances.

The board strongly opposed House Bill 5859, now before the Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement, which would increase county medical expenditures.

This bill would require counties to bear the first-year costs of all patients admitted to state hospitals. During fiscal year 1969-70 some 1,500 such patients cost $1,887,000, of which only $225,000 was reimbursed through medical insurance programs.

"We do not believe that additional costs for mental patients should continue to be added to county responsibilities. Therefore, this legislation should be strongly opposed," states the legislative committee report approved by the board.

In a related matter, the board endorsed House Bill 5299, under consideration by the House Mental Health Committee, Bill 5299 would allow patients no longer in need of psychiatric care to be transferred to a convalescent or nursing home. This act would lessen the cost of care for mental patients.

The director of the State Department of Mental Health, the director of the State Department of Social Services, and Macomb and Oakland counties have joined Wayne County in urging passage of this legislation.

Healthorama set April 19-22 at Wayne County General

"Help Yourself to Health" is the theme for the United Foundation Healthorama '72. Plans for this year's event were announced by Jacques Cousin, UF executive vice president.

"In the past four years, the people of our three-county community have demonstrated that they want and need a free health test service," said Cousin.

"Consequently, we fully expect Healthorama to be even more successful this year." More than 20,000 adults have been given the free health tests since the program began in 1968.

This year the Healthoramas are scheduled for April 19-22 at Wayne County General Hospital and May 31 through June 5 at Olympia Stadium. Both begin at 9 a.m. each day.

More than 20 free health screening tests are made possible through the cooperation of many voluntary and public health services.

A maximum of 500 adults a day will be checked for anemia, blood pressure, cervical cancer, diabetes, kidney malfunction, glaucoma and many other diseases. Also this year, for the first time, tests for sickle cell anemia will be made.

Chairman for the 1972 Healthorama is Mrs. George Zechmeister of Roseville, with co-chairmen Mrs. John Uhlig of Mt. Clemens and Mrs. Ralph E. Johnson of Dearborn. They represent Women for the United Foundation (WUF).

Coordinator is Edward W. Tuescher, vice president of the United Health Organization (UHO). Dr. William L. Simpson of Wayne State University Medical School, is medical consultant. UHO, a Torch Drive service, co-sponsors Healthorama with WUF.

Besides the tests, there will be educational and scientific exhibits on many health and social problems such as drug and alcohol abuse, help for the aging, and speech and hearing difficulties.

Cousin said, "It is apparent these free health tests fulfill a real need in the community because each year thousands of people feel they are worth standing in line for."

He stressed that the Healthorama is set up for well people without specific complaints of illness.

"The purpose of Healthorama," the UF executive explained, "is to promote preventive medicine by encouraging regular health check-ups."

It also serves to make tri-county area residents familiar with Torch Drive services and other community resources, and to provide a career incentive program encouraging young people to consider vocations in medicine and related health fields.

Joining the voluntary and public health services in staging the Healthoramas will be volunteers, medical and paramedical personnel, hospitals, schools of nursing students, and some 25 industries, unions, utilities and businesses.

Van Buren planners okay rezoning request

A rezoning request to permit the construction of multiple dwelling units has been approved by the Van Buren Township Board.

The request was filed by Rochester Homes of Southfield. The rezoning previously had been approved and recommended by the Van Buren Township Planning Commission and the Wayne County Planning Commission.

The land parcel rezoned from R1-C (single family residence) to RM (multiple dwelling) consists of 120 acres bounded by Ecorse and Tyler roads and Haggerty and Morton-Taylor roads. The rezoning also involves another 60 acres in the same land parcel which was changed from R1-C to C-1 (local business).

Rochester Homes has donated 10 acres for the construction of a school and another 10 acres for use of a park.

Trustee Joseph Hogan made a motion that the rezoning be approved to comply with the recommendation of both the township planning commission and the Wayne County Planners. He was supported by Trustee Jerry Maton and the board unanimously approved the motion.

A rezoning appeal from Seligman firm has proposed constructing 236 condominiums at the location, with 13 one-bedroom units and the remaining 223 two-bedroom units.

Both the township planners and the Wayne County Planners have recommended the request be refused.

The firm has appealed to the township board.

Sumpter launches blight campaign

An all-out campaign to rid Sumpter Township of blight has been approved by the Sumpter Township Board of Trustees.

The action to initiate a blight riddance campaign was taken when Trustee James O. Brown requested board action on cleaning up the township.

The campaign will begin on April 15 and will continue through June 15. Township-wide cooperation is urged by members of the township board.

Residents who have large items to remove from their premises will have a telephone number to call and have them removed free of charge.

Trustee Brown reported that plans to have the township rubbish collector make special pickups during the clean-up campaign are under study.

Beverly teachers take refresher course

Teachers at the Beverly Elementary School in Romulus are getting a refresher course in reading and teaching methods.

The classes will be conducted by a reading specialist from Eastern Michigan University. A similar in-service workshop was held at Cory School last month, and several teachers participated. Financed by Section 111 state aid funds, the classes are held on Tuesday evenings from 4 to 6 p.m. Teachers participate on a voluntary basis. Paraprofessionals also participate.

The classes will run for four weeks and cover such areas as sight vocabulary, word analysis, reading comprehension and recreational reading activation.

Amy's etiquette book revised in 20th year

Amy Vanderbilt, known since 1952 when her book was first published as "America's foremost authority on etiquette," has just added 20,000 words of major revision to her standard work. It has undergone a title change to the simpler Amy Vanderbilt's Etiquette and added 200 more pages becoming the most complete etiquette book (960 pages), published in a field which to the surprise of many has been widely proliferating in a period when to the casual eye etiquette seems dead as that bird.

"Etiquette is very much alive," Miss Vanderbilt comments. "If best seller lists reflected the sale of reference books, my book would have been on them continuously since 1952. This major revision," she says, "has been much more difficult to do than was the first major one ten years ago, because the '60's and '70's have been a period of social upheaval. I have certainly had to consider the Sexual Revolution which in many cases reflected what many people were doing all along but were not publicly willing to admit.

Not only are there many new sections in AMY VANDERBILT'S ETIQUETTE but to make room for them - or because they were outdated - many familiar paragraphs are out so hang on to your old copy (and libraries should too) if you plan to run a very formal household. The butler, the footman, and the ladies' maid have been virtually killed off and instead there is detailed information on such necessities as the handling of a maidless dinner gracefully.

"This may surprise many," Miss Vanderbilt commented, "but weddings are the subject of most of the questions I receive through my columns. No matter what you read about kooky-weddings they are very much in the minority. Most brides stick to the book; only a few decide to change some cherished custom radically. The wedding section is still the largest but it does reflect many departures now acceptable (i.e. on the remarriage of divorced people to each other, no formal announcements are released to the press. The couple thereafter celebrates their anniversaries from the date of the original marriage.)

The book for the first time covers many new aspects of our lives - the etiquette of snow-mobiling, how to behave in a sauna ("no matter what you have heard, the sauna is no place to sober up"), the dangers for women living alone, people who wear sunglasses ("Remove them when being presented. They make you look furtive."), false eyelashes ("heavy thread ones on thin, delicate old eyelids can look ridiculous").

Ecology is in. ("Teach your children to respect their environment.")

As to language, she writes, "Normal conversation today can certainly be studded with what not too long ago was considered abnormal language. Not only is the text of our conversation so

Danish pudding is 'jam-topped'

Veiled Country Lass is the Danish name for an apple-bread-jam pudding that is a favorite in all of the Scandinavian countries. Traditionally, it is made by chilling alternate layers of dark rye or pumpernickel bread crumbs, applesauce and jam in a bowl overnight, then inverting the mixture onto a serving plate and frosting the entire surface with a heavy layer of whipped cream.

In the following more decorative version, the pudding is shaped in a cake pan and the fruit preserves — a delicious blend of raspberry jam and currant jelly — are used as the top layer to take full advantage of their bright sparkling colors. Rosettes of whipped cream piped around the top edge and at the base of the pudding also contribute to the festive appearance of the easy, economical dessert.

VEILED COUNTRY LASS
(Danish Apple Pudding)

8 cups soft dark rye or pumpernickel bread crumbs (about 12 slices)
1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
1-3 cup sugar
3 jars (15 ounces each) applesauce
1/2 cup raspberry preserves
1/2 cup currant jelly
1 cup heavy cream
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Prepare bread crumbs by removing crusts and tearing bread with fingers into small crumbs. Melt butter in a large heavy skillet; add crumbs and the 1-3 cup sugar. Place over medium heat and saute, stirring until crumbs are crisp and brown. Place about 1/4 the crumbs mixture in the bottom of an 8-inch spring form pan. Spread one jar of the applesauce over the crumbs. Repeat layers, ending with crumbs mixture. Press top firmly with back of spoon. Cover and chill overnight.

About one hour before serving, melt preserves and jelly in a small saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly. Cool. Loosen edge of pudding from pan with a sharp knife, then remove side of pan. Transfer pudding to a serving plate. Spread cooled preserves mixture over top of pudding. Beat cream with sugar and vanilla until stiff. With a pastry bag fitted with a star tip, pipe rosettes of whipped cream around the top edge and bottom of pudding. Spoon remaining cream into a small serving bowl. Chill pudding and cream until ready to serve.

Makes eight servings.

PUDDING WITH COLORFUL TOPPING - jelly provides the delicious, decorative. A blend of raspberry preserves and currant topping of this chilled cake-shaped pudding.

SHOWER FOR DEBBIE

PRIOR TO her recent marriage, Debbie Traskos was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower at the V.F.W. Hall on Bemis Road. Her sister, Gloria, and sisters-in-law, Sue Traskos of Belleville and Fay Traskos of Jacksonville, Florida, were hostesses at the evening party.

A number of games with a wedding theme were played and prizes awarded the winners after which the group of 40 from Detroit, Romulus and Belleville were served a buffet luncheon. Centering the table in the streamered room was a miniature wedding cake.

When the honoree unwrapped her many household gifts, she was assisted by Gail Ihlenfeldt and Gloria Traskos.

Debbie became Mrs. Pat Marshall March 17 at a ceremony in Detroit.

GOLF VACATION

HEADING SOUTH just before Easter for a golfer's vacation at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina were four couples from Belleville who made their headquarters at the Ocean Reef Motel on the Atlantic.

Leaving Belleville on the 30th of March were the Bill Huges with Mike, Judy and Cindy; the Clyde Batzers with Cheryl and Jon; and the Clyde Stapletons with daughters, Elizabeth and Melissa. The Floyd Griffiths played it solo since their daughter, Ann, was in Florida with relatives and their son, Tom, with friends in Bermuda.

Joining the group over the Easter week-end were Tom and Betty Hopka, formerly of Ecorse Road, and now new residents of Knoxville, Tennessee.

HOME FROM FLORIDA

ARRIVING HOME this past Sunday from a two weeks vacation in Florida were Tom and Grace Hudge and their trio, Sherie, Tommie and Gary, who were houseguests of Tom's parents, the Leonard Huges in Tarpon Springs.

Ruby Falls and Lookout Mountain were the 'picture-taking' spots in Tennessee where they also experienced a freak snowstorm. Busch Gardens, the Aquarium at St. Petersburg Beach, and Disney World were the highlights in the Sunshine State with the two Hudge families celebrating Tommie's 10th birthday during dinner at the Kapok Tree Inn at Clearwater.

The younger Huges also got together with their Sumpter Road neighbors, the senior Stanley Sliwas and Stan and Joyce Sliwa and children, Tina, Cindy and Michael, for a day at Fred Howard Park. The Sliwas, too, were in Tarpon Springs for the holiday, camping out at the KOA Trailer Court.

REUNION AT HOLIDAY TIME

THE CLARKS - Jack, Fran and baby, Terri - have been away for 10 days visiting with relatives in Norman, Oklahoma, their former home. Making the trip especially to celebrate the 90th birthday of Fran's grandmother, Mrs. Willinda King, the Clarks joined some 130 friends and relatives at the party held in her honor at the local Baptist Church.

While away, the trio spent time with Fran's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Smith, as well as with sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tubbs and Mr. and Mrs. Troy Ashley.

Manufacturers suggest:

Proper methods in use of new roasting bags

In recent weeks, there have been a number of reports on problems arising from the use of roasting bags. Manufacturers of the roasting bags have received the problems with the Food and Drug Administration.

While the accidents, resulting from the use of the bags have been few in comparison with the millions used, studies have been made to eliminate even the few.

Basically, the problem has been identified as follows: During any cooking, as the fat and other juices are released from the meat, a situation may be reached whereby a layer of the rendered fat accumulates over the juices. As the juices boil under the fat, pressure is created which eventually causes splattering or "bumping."

A major splattering or "bumping" of this nature is a rare occurrence and frequently is the cause of a very dirty, messy oven and, more infrequently, fires. When this occurs during cooking with a roasting bag, the force of this "bumping" is, on extremely rare occasions, sufficient to break the bag and release the fat and juices. This condition can be prevented by adding another agent, such as flour or a seasoning sauce mixture, which acts as a "boiling chip" and ensures even boiling.

The following suggestions have been made by the manufacturers for roasting bag cooking:

When using a roasting bag product where a seasoning or sauce mix is included, the mix is sufficient and flour should not be added unless otherwise specified in the product directions.

When using a plain roasting bag, add 1 tablespoon of flour to the bag, shake well, then add the meat. Spices may also be added to the flour for flavor, but a sprinkling of salt and pepper on the meat is not sufficient without the flour.

Use a pan large enough to contain the entire bag so that the bag does not overlap the sides and is deep enough to hold all liquids that may be released during cooking. The pan should be at least 1 1/2 to 2 inches high. A metal pan, preferably aluminum or stainless steel, is recommended.

Trim any excess fat from meat before putting it in the bag.

Puncture the bag as directed on the package.

Preheat oven to recommended temperature. Place in the oven so that the bag does not touch the sides of the racks of the oven. Do not use under the broiler heat or on an outdoor grill. Carefully read the manufacturer's directions as to cooking temperatures and times.

Homemaker classes set for prospective brides

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company's team of graduate home economists announce their seventh annual series of free homemaker classes for brides and brides-to-be will begin the week of April 11 in the Company's auditorium at One Woodward Ave.

"While this four-week series of demonstrations is primarily designed to appeal to young homemakers", said Colleen Uthe, manager of consumer services, "our 1972 series has been expanded to a fourth week in order to include husbands and fiancés."

The full series, consisting of four classes, will be offered on three different days. "The Art of Baking" will be the kick-off program and will cover basic baking techniques needed to assure future success with breads, cakes and pies. This program will be presented by Equilla Coleman on April 11 at 7:30 p.m., April 12 at 2 p.m. and April 13 at 6:30 p.m.

Home economist Yvonne West has planned the second week's series around meat, the entree of most nutritious meals, starting at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 18. Budget stretching ideas, plus new and exciting ways of preparing meat, fish and poultry will be shown during her demonstration "Magical Meat Treats". This program will be repeated April 19 at 2 p.m. and April 20 at 6:30 p.m.

"Entertaining Graciously" will offer ideas on how to be an unharried hostess. Mrs. Julie Janusch will show how to plan ahead for elegant dinners. The third program begins Tuesday, April 24 at 7:30 p.m. and will be repeated on April 25 and April 26, at the same time as the two previous programs.

In their grand finale, husbands and fiancés will be invited to a special program, "Gas Grill Favorites" which provide some interesting tips on the great American pastime, ... "Grilling Out." At this final program, ladies who attended all four programs receive an honorary diploma. The men in their lives will be invited to the award presentation. The fourth and final demonstration will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 2; at 7 p.m., Wednesday, May 3, and 6:30 p.m., Thursday, May 4.

All demonstrations are free. But since auditorium space is limited, Miss Uthe recommends that reservations be made by calling 965-2430, extension 2925.

Shh! Calories are sleeping

By MARY SUE MILLER

Beware the bedtime snack! If you're a weight-watcher, that is.

In the first place, a late-late repast is certain to overdraw on your calorie allotment for the day. But even more significant is the fact that your body cannot possibly utilize the overage.

While you sleep, only about 400 calories per 100 pounds of body weight are used in 8 hours. During the day, an active person burns up more calories in a half-hour than in a long night's sleep. Excess weight is the direct result of the unused calories.

The midnight raid on the refrigerator, therefore, could be even more of a threat to successful reduction than cheating on your diet at regular mealtimes. Not that the latter course is ever recommended.

You actually have a chance to work off extra calories snatched during the day. The calories in the post-prandial fudge cake make a plump feather bed for themselves - and you know where - the moment you bed down.

Albeit many reducers are aware of the danger, they continue the one-for-the-road. All manner of reasons are given for the habit. The principal one seems to be, "I'm so hungry, I can't sleep."

True or false, the excuses cannot be shrugged off. Otherwise, real or imagined misery ensues. So what's the answer? One comes from low-cal snacks, such as chewy, bulky raw carrot and celery strips. Another idea is to save fruit or a glass of skim milk from daytime rations and have it at bedtime. That way you do not break your calorie bank and you save a lot of distress.

POCKET CALORIE COUNTER

Do you really know the calorie counts of the foods you eat? Our leaflet, POCKET CALORIE COUNTER, tells the score at a glance. It also gives a diet plan - a way to eat and slim. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller, care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

YW schedules babysitter classes

The second in a series of Sitter Training for mentally retarded children sponsored by the YWCA of Western Wayne County will begin Thursday-April 13.

The first class of eight women "graduated" March 21 and calls for help began before they had finished.

The course is designed to help women wishing to baby sit with these children, understand the moods and makeup of the mentally retarded, to develop kits with games and puzzles to keep them occupied, first aid and other techniques necessary to sitting with the retarded youngster.

The need for patient, kind women is great. The response even before the end of the original class shows the need of many more to help parents take a break from the never ending care of these children.

Most important to a parent is the knowledge that the sitter is trained, understanding and willing to do this particular type of job. The effect of not being able to go out as a family or enjoy a few hours away from the home situation places a great strain on some families, particularly the younger married ones.

The course is taught by Miss Mary Lou Durbin of the Garden City School system, herself a former special education teacher. Women interested in taking the course or finding out more about it are asked to call Miss Grey at LO 1-4110.

Wood wonders

Removing a stairway wall and replacing it with a banister of 2x4-inch western wood can visually expand the adjacent room while adding a dramatic accent.

The rear stairway wall, painted a lively color or washed with lighting, becomes a gallery for art works or photographs.

If the stairs lead to an upper level, the area opened under the stairs can be used for storage or a desk. If stairs lead down, an open divider wall can be built in with bookshelves and display areas.

No single location for a cleaning closet is convenient to all areas of the house, so it may be best to split this storage.

Land use hearing scheduled

The Van Buren Township Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing at 8 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) on a proposed land use map for Van Buren Township.

The hearing will be held at the township hall, located at 46425 Tyler Rd.

The seven-member planning commission has been studying the changes and growth in the township for several months, resulting in a new proposed land use plan.

The plan is designed to assist the commission and township administration in guiding the township's growth in an orderly and "logical" manner, which will make Van Buren Township an ideal place to reside.

The plan disclosed how much property should be used for residential purposes and where it should be located as well as the best locations for parks, schools, industry, commercial enterprises and transportation facilities.

Charles Walls, chairman of the planning commission will preside at the public hearing.

R. Smith to attend confab

Robert H. Smith, 18881 Savage Rd., Belleville, has qualified to attend a career conference of New York Life Insurance Co. agents this month at the Dearborn Inn in Dearborn. Gerald H. Gordon, general manager of the company's Dearborn general office, announced.

Smith will join other agents and company executives for educational work in life underwriting, health and employee protection insurance.

Stech's leaving is official

The retirement of Irwin W. Stech, 63, after 30 years of service with the City of Belleville was formally accepted with regrets by the Belleville City Council at last week's session.

Stech, whose retirement becomes effective on May 1, will spend his last day at City Hall on April 28. He resides at 445 Robbe St.

He is currently the chief of police, city clerk, city assessor and the superintendent of streets.

Stech stated that his retirement is due to health reasons, although he added that he would like to stay on the job a little bit longer.

Van Buren offers much in summer recreation

Bored? Extra time with nothing to do? Busy? With what?

We all know that life can become routine and meaningless. The body becomes weak and the spirit dies a little more each day. You owe it to yourself to spark your life with recreation.

Van Buren Township and the Van Buren Public Schools have joined forces to provide funds and facilities for a year-round recreation program for you.

Get up. Get out. Get involved and enjoy.

What is available? Swimming: Monday through Thursday evenings from 7:30-9 p.m. there is a family free swim available at the Belleville High School pool. There is a program of swim instruction on Saturday afternoons.

New classes in beginning and intermediate swimming will begin on April 15. Classes are held from 1 to 4 p.m. and are under the direction of David Long. There is no fee for this program.

Tae Kwon Do: Another new program is beginning. A class is now being formed to experience the art of Korean Karate.

The class is open to all members of the family both male and female six years of age or older. Family exercise, body-conditioning and self defense.

The class is instructed by Rod Collins, former resident of Belleville, who studies Tae Kwon Do under James Yu, the Michigan Tae Kwon Do master instructor.

Membership fee is $10 for eight sessions a month per member. Membership entitles the member to workout with any other Tae Kwon Do group in the area. Registrations are available Mondays and Wednesdays at North Junior High School (6:30 - 9 p.m.).

Adult Recreation: The high school gymnasium has been made available to adults for recreational activities on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30-9 p.m. This program is open to both men and women.

The men's program is under the direction of Ben Robertson. The women's program is under the direction of Joan Baker.

Program activities include a "Run For Your Life" body-conditioning program, basketball, volleyball, badminton with plans for expansion as the group grows. There is no fee for this program.

Adult Drama: The Belleville Community Players are nearing production of a play entitled "Portrait of Jenny", which will be given at the Belleville High School auditorium April 14-15 at 8 p.m.

The play is under the direction of Mrs. Judi Adams, who is also president of the Belleville Community Players. It may be too late for involvement in this production, but never too late to get involved with this recreational activity, rest assured of that. Plans are being made for future productions and workshop activities. Come on in they would like to see you.

The players are partially sponsored by the Van Buren Township Recreation Program, and partially by a membership fee of $12 per person per year ($1 a month). The group is open to all interested adults and students who have graduated from high school.

High School Drama: Students of high school age are invited to join with members of this recreational group which is about to begin production of a major play. Plays under consideration are "Flowers For Algernon", "Flight Into Danger" and "Cold Comfort Farm".

The group meets at the Belleville High School auditorium on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7-9 p.m. There is no fee.

Plans are being made for classes in interior decorating and horticulture (decorative plants and planting). Other programs and classes will be planned as you make your suggestions known to Recreational Director James Lightfoot.

Suggestions may be mailed to him care of Van Buren Township offices 46425 Tyler Rd., Belleville, Mich. 48111, attention: Building Department.

Summer Program: It is planned to run a recreational program similar to last summer, including programs in Tennis, Arts and crafts, drama, summer band, golf day with possible expansion to justify include a swimming program, nature field trips, girls softball league and more.

Have ideas? Programs do not just start.

Plan recycling drive

Romulus students honor Earth Week

The members of the Romulus Ecology Club and Romulus Science Club have united to plan and participate in activities commemorating Earth Week.

A series of events are planned for Romulus Senior High School and the Romulus community. The activities will begin on Monday, April 17 and continue through Saturday, April 29.

On April 17 there will be a general assembly for the students and faculty of the high school. Tuesday through Friday various speakers from such places as the Environmental Protection Agency and the Environmental Action Committee will come to address the biology classes of the high school.

On Saturday, April 22, the community of Romulus and its citizens will have the opportunity to get involved and "give" earth a chance.

Members of both clubs are requesting that residents and others save glass containers and aluminum cans for recycling.

The collection site for materials to be recycled will be the front area of the Romulus Senior High School from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In a statement issued Monday, club members said: "We are asking the people of this community help us in the project. The more people who are willing to help, the greater the accomplishment of this venture. If the collection site proves to be a success, they may be held periodically throughout the weeks to come."

"If the people of the community would show their support and help us in our fight against pollution, we may breathe a little easier. All we are, saying is give earth a chance."

Hearing today on food prices

Elton R. Smith, president of Michigan Farm Bureau, said he welcomes the public hearings on food prices the Price Commission will hold today (Wednesday).

"I am sure the real culprits causing the food price increase will be exposed and the farmer will no longer be used as the scapegoat," Smith said.

He pointed out that out of the average food dollar spent by the consumer, 62 cents ends up in the pockets of middlemen.

The facts show that during the past 20 years, farmers' prices for food products have gone up 6 per cent, while consumer food prices, those paid at the check-out counter, have gone up 43 per cent. The farmers' share of the consumer's food dollar has shrunk from 49 cents to 38 cents. During that same period, the nation's wage rates increased an average of

They're horse bones, not human

Several bones found on Fireworks Island in Belleville and believed to be those of a human turned out to be the bones of a horse, Belleville Police Sgt. Mickey McLaughlin reported Monday.

William Richardson of 8701 Belleville Rd., Belleville, reported to police he discovered what he thought to be a human leg bone on March 29 when he and his wife were strolling on the island, which is located west of the Belleville Road bridge in Belleville Lake.

An investigation by police and the Wayne County Medical Examiner disclosed the bone found by Richardson and others located nearby were those of a horse that apparently got on the island from a nearby road years ago.

State board urges financing changes

The State Board of Education has adopted a resolution urging the legislature to get together on a single plan to revamp educational financing in Michigan.

The resolution pointed out the financial plight of Michigan public education "is evidenced by the significant number of school districts indicating they will end the current fiscal year in a deficit condition."

The state board said the evidence is further compounded by a developing pattern of initial failure of school districts to pass minimum required operating millage for participation in state school aid.

The resolution indicates the board agrees with "a sizeable body" of educational leaders who advocate abandoning the property tax as the primary support of public education through high school.

"Whereas," the resolution continues, "these leaders and other Michigan citizens dedicated to the provisions of quality education for all children and youth of the state have publicly declared their belief that Michigan should move toward a system of substantial state funding of public education; and the President's Commission on School Finance (has said) the state should assume major responsibility of financing public education.

"Resolved, that the State Board of Education urges all interested and concerned parties to join to develop a single constitutional proposal for a comprehensive state revenue plan and property tax restriction in order that the Michigan citizens may have the opportunity to vote on and decide this important issue in either the August, 1972, primary election or the November general election to follow."

The board currently is working with several representative groups of the state's educational community to develop a state funding proposal for consideration by the Michigan legislature.

Assessment test results received in Van Buren

The first results of the 1971-72 Michigan Educational Assessment Program, conducted by the Michigan Department of Education, have been received by Dale E. Kaulitz, superintendent of Van Buren Public School District.

These results are individual pupil scores on word relationships, reading, mechanics of written English, mathematics and composite achievement.

Individual pupil scores may be appropriately used by school personnel in counseling with students and parents.

Since the test scores are personal information, they are considered confidential and will not be made a part of the public record, but will become a part of the pupil's school file, Kaulitz said.

The purpose of these results is to provide school districts with basic information that will help the students, their parents, and educators assess their progress.

Additionally this information will be used by local educators to identify students who have extraordinary need for assistance to improve their competence in the basic skills. This assurance might take the form of appropriate curricular emphasis.

"It should be noted that many areas of pupil achievement and development are not included in the assessment battery. It must be remembered that the goals of local schools are much broader than were tested in this battery. Therefore, persons wishing to judge the overall achievement of pupils must look to additional measures for judgment in other areas of pupil development," Kaulitz said.

The three-day tests involving about 1,200 members of the fourth and seventh grades were held last January.

County loses medical doctors

Wayne County lost 102 medical doctors last year, according to the Michigan Health Council's 1972 Survey of Health Manpower, which recently was released. During the past year Michigan gained 213 licensed physicians and 7,108 nurses.

Michigan increased its number of licensed medical doctors by 206 for a record total of 9,090 and the number of osteopathic doctors by 7 for a record total of 2,124. The number of registered nurses jumped 4,728 to a record number of 45,942 and licensed practical nurses had an increase of 2,380 to a record number of 22,771.

The increase in nurses during the past year was attributed by John A. Doherty, executive vice president of the Michigan Health Council, to the fact that most community colleges in Michigan now are providing educational programs for both registered and licensed practical nursing.

Many nurses also have taken advantage of retraining education programs offered throughout Michigan and have returned to active nursing in hospitals, clinics and nursing homes. Another important factor in the number of registered nurses is that Michigan now has nine state and private colleges and universities offering baccalaureate programs in nursing.

Most Michigan counties gained one or more doctors of medicine. Mayor counties increasing their number of medical doctors were Genesee (17), Kalamazoo (16), Calhoun (9), Macomb (25), Ingham (18), Kent (31), Washtenaw (36) and Oakland (117).

Counties with major losses included Houghton (6), Midland (6) and Wayne (102). Michigan now has a ratio of one physician per 792 population compared to a U.S. ratio of one physician per 631 population.

"During the past two years Michigan has doubled the number of entering medical students and added medical and osteopathic medical colleges at Michigan State University," said Doherty. "We are hopeful that within another two or three years, we will be gaining at least 400 to 500 licensed physicians annually in Michigan."

EXPANDS OUTDOOR LIVING — For enjoyment of a valley panorama, deck with a chalet look set on posts. It also extends outdoor living space for house high on sloping hillside, or it could enhance view from second floor of house on flat lot. Railing is 1 x 6-inch specially cut cedar boards, benches are of 2 x 3-inch cedar with 2 x 4-inch facings.

Vista deck helps homeowners enjoy outdoor view entertaining

There's nothing like a deck to open a house to complete enjoyment of the outdoors, for family fun or entertaining, and for unobstructed access to the view.

Not every house is sited for a splendid view, but often the addition of a deck can enhance a panorama, especially if it's off a second story room, or on the roof of the garage.

For one family visited recently, whose home rests on a hillside, a side deck on posts extends the living room seemingly over the valley.

It's a perfect place for catching the morning sun over a second cup of coffee or for spill-over entertaining. And it adds a level, dry area for children to play.

The deck was jugged to spare two existing trees, one of which comes through the deck where the 2x3-inch Douglas fir decking is trimmed back to allow for future growth.

Benches attached to the decorative board railing provide seating along two sides of the deck with a view of the valley, and on a third side overlooking a swimming pool, but out of splashing range.

Benches are built of 2x3-inch wood on edge, with a 2x4-inch facing and 4x4-inch posts. The railing is of 1x6-inch cedar boards, topped by a 1x3-inch strip on edge and a 2x4-inch flat cap.

Special cut-outs in the top halves of adjoining sets of boards give the railing a chalet appearance. This detailing is carried out from the house, where it is used on a railing for a balcony around two sides of the high-ceiling living room.

Additional seating is provided by a flat bench attached to the top of a concrete retaining wall along the uphill side of the deck. This bench, of the same 2x3-inch wood, offers a sunny but cool-to-the-touch place to stretch out and dry off after swimming.

IMPROVE YOUR HOME

Flooded basement jinx might be solved easily

Five years ago a friend of mine bought a house at a bargain price.

When I asked him how he was able to get it at such a low price, he explained:

"The house had been on the market for more than a year. Every few months, when it became apparent there were no buyers, he reduced the selling price a couple of thousand dollars. A real estate broker took me around to see the house. Everything looked fine until we went into the basement. Then I saw why the house hadn't sold. Not only was the basement excessively damp, but there were water marks all around the walls, making it plain that the basement had been flooded many times, probably every time there was a heavy rain."

"I asked the owner about the marks. He admitted, in a kind of resigned way, that flooding definitely was a problem. A few days later, I deliberately visited the house during a rainstorm. The next day, I signed to buy the house."

What prompted such a decision in view of the basement problem?

"Because my second visit confirmed what I suspected the first time. The basement flooding was caused by two factors. The soil around the outside of the house had sunken and was slanted toward the house instead of away from it. And there were no gutters and downspouts anywhere, so water from the roof poured over the eaves and down into the slanted ground. No wonder the basement flooded every time it rained."

You can guess the rest of the story. My friend had gutters and downspouts installed, with drain tile carrying the roof water away from the house into dry wells. He repacked the soil around the foundation so that water hitting it immediately flowed away. In the five years since those actions, there has never been a drop of water in the basement.

Naturally, there are other causes of flooded basements. But there are doubtless thousands of other houses around the country with similar problems that can be solved by similar means. Sometimes, merely reslating the soil is all that is required.

If your house has gutters and downspouts, it is important that they be kept free of debris. Periodic inspections—about twice a year—are recommended, but they should be even more frequent if there are tall trees overhanging the edges of the roof.

A wire cage should be installed over the top of each downspout opening, but even this requires some attention, because leaves in the gutter channel sometimes are pushed along by water and jam up the cages.

Where there is a severe leaf problem, it is wise to install screening material along the entire lengths of the gutters in addition to the wire cages at the downspouts. Ready-made screening for this purpose can be purchased at hardware stores, lumber yards and building supply dealers.

(Caulking, brick repairing and plaster patching are among 35 subjects handled in Andy Lang's handbook, "Simple Plumbing Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Solve cooling problems now

The cool months are the best for routine maintenance or installation of central air conditioning, the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute advises.

Contractors are often overworked during the busy summer months, when efforts to keep up with demands on their time may involve round-the-clock work.

There are significant advantages to the home owner to take care of his cooling problems before the weather warms up. Your contractor may offer special price reductions in winter, a means of keeping his crews busy. He can schedule the job at your convenience, complete it quickly and without emergency interruptions.

Routine servicing is important to the efficient operation of any cooling system, and winter is the most practical time for this inspection, not only for convenience, but to prepare the system to operate properly during the summer ahead. Good maintenance procedures are an economy in the long run because, with care, an air-conditioning system will last almost as long as your home.

ARI notes the importance of installing dependable equipment that has been certified according to the rigid standards of the industry-wide consumer protection program of ARI. You can rely on equipment that displays the blue and white Seal of Certification and is properly

Tomorrow's forecast from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your mind is alert and active but you are well advised not to concentrate on important plans. Instead, use this energy to start winding up interesting but not vital arrangements. Tomorrow you will be able to put in motion interesting new plans that you can handle well.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can engage in those pleasurable activities you like today and derive much happiness from them. Make sure you are with friends and avoid arguments. Go to bed early tonight.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal day to concentrate on personal affairs that could make your life more harmonious and happy. You can solve annoying problems now. Make sure you control your temper and all is fine.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You want to be with good friends today, and this is fine, but keep a cheerful manner. Make sure you are not extravagant in any way. Make this a pleasant and happy day. Relax at home tonight.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Take no risks in handling vocational activities for best results. Improve your credit by paying important bills quickly instead of stalling. Think along right lines.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are interested in new activities, take the time to study all details. Find those for which you are best suited and wait at least until tomorrow before taking action on them.

Virgo (Aug 22 to Sept. 22) Don't be afraid to study new systems that could increase your production at work. Loved one may be in a bad mood in the morning, but by evening all changes for the better. Have patience.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make it a point to listen carefully to suggestions of an associate or you may be the loser when benefits are handed out. Be sure to handle an outside duty well. Think logically and all is fine.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have fine ideas on how to be more efficient at work, so follow through on them. You can make much progress in this area. Talk the future over with co-workers and gain their confidence.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Recreation is fine today, provided you are not extravagant or spend your time with the wrong people. A hobby you have could prove most enjoyable now. Plan future activities tonight.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A promise to a close tie must be kept if you are to have the harmony you want with this important person in your life. Entertain at home tonight. Show that you are a delightful person.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can make great progress in your intellectual endeavors, be it writing, or whatever. Change your approach with co-workers and get greater cooperation from them. Be wise.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to be more prosperous but in your efforts make sure you do so ethically. Obtain advice from clever persons in business. Enthusiasm is the keynote. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people with many fine ideas, but needs to be taught early to study them well before putting them in operation. Your progeny has an excellent mind, so prepare now for higher education. Also, teach early to complete whatever has been started. Sports are fine here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The winner of this contest will be announced at this time. Tickets can be procured by calling Mrs. Rose Silvey at 941-0289.

Two streets lose parking restrictions

An amendment to Romulus' fire lane ordinance, calling for the deletion of two city streets, has been approved by the city council.

The roll call vote of the council was 5-2. Councilmen James C. Stewart and William M. Oakley voted against the ordinance.

Deleted are Brandt and Leroy streets effective immediately upon publication of the amendment, which is printed elsewhere in this issue.

The council's action followed lengthy discussions at a previous council session as well as last week's meeting on the merits of changing the present provisions of the ordinance.

The decision was considered a victory for the residents of Brandt Street, a main artery into the Oakbrook Subdivision, to permit parking on both sides of the street.

The battle was spearheaded by Mrs. Lynne Slaughter of 30510 Dorset St. She, as well as other residents, contended the 37-foot wide street is wide enough to permit parking on both sides and still maintain its fire lane and school bus designations.

The school district and Romulus police and fire departments opposed any change.

A legal opinion from the city attorney stated that the council could approve parking on both sides of Brandt, but would have to accomplish it by adopting an amendment to the fire lane ordinance. Councilman Ellis T. Pennington requested that Leroy Street be similarly

FitzPatrick supports federal revenue sharing

Citing the county's fiscal crisis, the chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has joined in an unprecedented bipartisan call for federal revenue sharing.

Wayne County Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick joined the state legislative leadership of both major political parties, Gov. William G. Milliken, and the organizations of Michigan cities and counties in the plea.

Unified support for the revenue-sharing plan, introduced in Congress by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., was announced March 30 at a joint news conference in the governor's office.

"Revenue sharing makes sense because the federal income tax is the greatest revenue-generating device in the world," FitzPatrick stated. "At one time in our history, 75 per cent of all the tax dollars collected remained at the local levels of government. Today the reverse is true. Only 25 per cent remains at the local levels, while 75 per cent goes to the state and federal governments."

"County government is uniquely powerless both in terms of raising the revenues it needs to finance its services and in terms of adjusting its services to fit the funds available."

Plumbing ordinance amended

The Belleville City Council has adopted a resolution amending the plumbing ordinance relative to plumbing inspections in the city.

In March 1966, the city council adopted the Plumbing Code of the State of Michigan, which provided for inspections to be made by plumbing inspectors appointed by the city.

The amendment approved last week repeals the provisions of the ordinance for inspections by city inspectors.

The resolution requests the State Plumbing Board to provide plumbing inspections services for the City of Belleville.

This, FitzPatrick said, is because all but about $60 million of the county's $234 million general budget is earmarked for state-mandated programs.

He also pointed out that recent legislative and judicial decisions have imposed multi-million-dollar costs on the county without providing any revenue increases to meet the new obligations.

These decisions included a legislative act giving a portion of the county's property tax revenue to Wayne County Community College, a Circuit Court mandate virtually requiring a new jail, and a Michigan Supreme Court degree that eliminated county control over court expenditures.

Under the Mills plan, cash grants would be available for programs in the fields of public safety, environmental protection, transportation, youth recreation, health and construction related to those programs.

The Mills plan would provide a total of $3.5 billion a year for five years to cities and counties for "high priority" programs. It also would provide $1.8 billion annually for distribution to states which have state income taxes, as does Michigan.

The news conference was arranged by the Michigan Association of Counties and the Michigan Municipal League, which announced they have formed a joint committee to push for the Mills plan.

In addition to FitzPatrick, a Democrat, and Milliken, a Republican, those taking part included Detroit Mayor Roman S. Gribbs and the two parties' leaders in both houses of the legislature. FitzPatrick is a director of the counties' association.

The Democrats were represented by Sen. Coleman A. Young and Rep. William A. Ryan, both of Detroit, and the Republicans by Sen. Robert VanderLaan of Grand Rapids and Clifford H. Smart of Walled Lake.

"Wayne County needs help, and we need it desperately," FitzPatrick declared at the news conference. He cited the fact that the county faces a potential deficit of $13.5 million by Nov. 30. He said
